Speaker of Reichstag Tells Hindenburg Assembly Expects Papen to Resign

Canadian Press and Associated Press Dispatches

Berlin, Sept. 14.—Adolf Hitler, leader of German's National Socialists, opened his campaign to-day for Germany's fifth major election this year by warning the opposition parties his Nazis will meet all opponents "in the way they deserve and must expect."

"Attack is the best means of defence," Hitler warned, following a meeting of the Nazi leaders. "Any suppressive measures against us will be a weapon that will turn on the oppressor."

Meantime, Hermann Goering, Nazi president of the Reichstag, told President Paul von Hindenburg in a letter that the Reichstag expected immediate withdrawal of the dissolution decree and the resignation of the von Papen government.

The anti-von Papen vote in the Reichstag Monday was 513 to 52.

Roosevelt Tells U.S. Farmers of His Plans

Democratic Presidential Nominee, Opening Tour at Topeka, Kas., Outlines Six-point Relief Programme

By Walter T. Brown, Associated Press Staff Writer

Topeka, Kan., Sept. 14.—Declaring the Harding, Coolidge and Hoover Republican administrations had "failed utterly to understand the farm problem as a national whole; or to plan for its relief," Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic Presidential candidate, speaking to-day in the heart of the "farm belt," proposed a sixfold relief programme. He called for a "definite policy of giving those who have lost title to their farms, now held by institutions seeking credit from governmental agencies, the preferential opportunity of getting their property back."

U.S. FARMERS SOON TO TAKE LAND IN MANITOBA

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Sept. 14.—For the purpose of placing United States farmers on Canadian soil, a United States firm has purchased 10,000 acres of land near Ely Creek, thirty-five miles southwest of Winnipeg. A further purchase of 25,000 acres in an undisclosed district is being negotiated, according to W. J. Whiddon, representing a United States corporation bearing his name.

Attracted by cheaper land and higher farm produce prices, Mr. Whiddon says,

GERMAN CHANCELLOR AND A CALLER FROM CHICAGO

When the above picture was taken recently Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago, left, was visiting Franz von Papen, Chancellor of Germany, in Berlin. To-day von Papen learned the speaker of the Reichstag, H. Goering, a Nazi, had sent a letter to President von Hindenburg informing him the Reichstag expected von Papen to resign as Chancellor as a result of the 513 to 52 vote against his government in the assembly last Monday.

Germany Not Ripe For Monarchy Yet

REGIME FAILS AFTER ONE DAY

Canadian Press

Santiago, Sept. 14.—Gen. Bartolome Blanche, installed yesterday as Acting President of Chile, submitted his resignation this morning.

The presidential palace, from which Provisional President Carlos Davila had been ousted to make way for Blanche, was left in the hands of under-officials.

Colonel Arthur Merino Benitez, chief of the air service and leader of the movement which ousted Davila, fled from the city and barricaded himself at El Bosque airport.

A committee of army leaders gathered hastily in an effort to stabilize the situation, but it appeared Davila might try to regain power. Meantime the city remained quiet.

Mr. Groth, who has been at the Empress Hotel for the last two days, knows von Papen intimately. He was associated with the German Chancellor in Mexico City in 1912 when Capt. von Papen, as he was then known in the diplomatic service, went from the United States to Mexico to drill the German residents to defend themselves at the time of the Mexican Revolution, when President Francisco Madero was in power.

NO MONARCHY YET

"Von Papen," said Mr. Groth in giving an impartial view of the German political situation, "is a man of strong principles, brave and courageous, and, of course, he is a monarchist."

"I don't believe von Papen dare attempt to bring back a monarchistic regime."

CONFERENCE OF CIVIC HEADS

Municipal Union to Discuss Relief Problems To-morrow Night

Government-municipal relations on relief, mothers' pension allowances and other matters affecting municipalities in the province will be reviewed at a special meeting of the executive of the Union of B.C. Municipalities in Vancouver to-morrow evening.

Mayor Leeming of Victoria, Reeve Crouch of Saanich and Mayor Barab of Nanaimo will be the island representatives at the gathering.

One of the main items for discussion will be the recommendation of a representative of organized municipalities for the "committee of three" which is to direct B.C. relief affairs. This committee, it is understood, will consist of Mayor Fordham, the director, and two supervisors, one representing unorganized territories and the other municipal governments.

Action in regard to mothers' pensions sought by the municipalities is in reference not only to the lack of uniformity in the size of grants made, but also with a view to bringing the situation into line with the federal aid.

DR. GORGULOFF IS EXECUTED NANAIMO MEN INSIST ON AID

Associated Press
 Paris, Sept. 14.—France exacted the supreme penalty to-day for the slaying of her venerable president, Paul Doumer, by executing on the guillotine Dr. Paul Gorguloff, Russian physician, who shot him May 6.
 Gorguloff was executed at 5.52 a.m., as he muttered almost incomprehensible references to his "idea."
 He was accompanied by the scaffold by Rev. Father Gillet, a priest of the Greek Church, who was his spiritual adviser. The priest kissed him just before the guards secured him.
NO DELAY SEEN
 Dawn was just breaking. The procedure moved swiftly. Only forty seconds after Gorguloff had stepped down from the guillotine, the last act of the law had been completed.
 Only a small crowd saw the execution. When he was awakened in his cell.

regime in Germany. The people do not want it," he remarked.
 "Do you think Germany will ever again become a monarchy?" he was asked.
 "The time is not ripe for a monarchy yet, but it will come ultimately. It may not be for fifty years or more, but the monarchy will return, of that I am convinced, and I believe that the great majority of the German people hold the same view. But the German people want to give the republic a chance to find out how costly the experiment has been."

CANNOT PAY WAR DEBTS

"Great Britain and Germany will always incline towards the monarchy, because it stands for the exclusion of graft and corruption."
 "What is the German position on reparations and war debts?"
 "President Hindenburg is the bulwark of the nation, a man of honor, who will guarantee the constitutional rights of the German nation and will do all in his power to see that private debts are settled, although war debts cannot and will not be paid," he replied.

"As soon as France sees this the better off will be the whole world. Great Britain and the United States, fully understand our position in this respect, but France fears her former adversary and is not apt to overcome this feeling therefore she will not consent to the total cancellation of reparations and war debts."

VON PAPPEN MAY WIN

"What do you think will be the outcome of the present impasse between Von Pappen and the Reichstag? Do you think he will be upheld by the Supreme Court of Germany?"
 "Personally I do. I am of the opinion that Von Pappen will continue in power. He is the man who guarantees to Europe and the rest of the world a conservative policy."
 "What are your views on the position of Adolf Hitler? Do you think he will ultimately be taken into the government?"

GIVES HITLER CREDIT

"It is more than probable that he will be," answered Mr. Groth. "The leader, he said, had imbued the Social Democrats with patriotism and had prevented them from turning to Bolshevism."
 "Hitler deserves credit for that," he asserted. "He came out of the ranks, is a dynamic speaker and knows the psychological effect of his arguments. But Hitler is a poor statesman, and, in my opinion, he could not successfully lead the government."

Mr. Groth muttered prayers in Russian and then began to talk about his "idea."
 Nanaimo, Sept. 14.—Unemployed white men and Chinese this morning forced their way into the courthouse here in protest against being "bluffed" in their attempts to secure provincial distribution of boots and free hunting licenses. Invasion of the courthouse followed prolonged negotiations with Government Agent Monroe and Game Warden Graham. At 1 o'clock today Mr. Monroe pledged every effort to secure action by the provincial government's unemployment relief committee, and the men dispersed for lunch.

The mass meeting of unemployed white men and Chinese from Nanaimo and outlying districts congregated early in front of the courthouse.
 The delegation to the game warden asked free permission for men to hunt to provide staples. The game warden stated it was impossible for him or the Attorney-General to grant such permission. Members of the delegation then instanced cases at Alberni and other places where similar permission had been given.

Government Agent Monroe tried unsuccessfully to get in touch with the provincial unemployed committee at Victoria to present the demands of the men for shoes.
 Reporting back to the meeting the delegates said they had not got any decisive answer and the meeting decided to await specified time for word from Victoria. No reply coming in the time specified, the unemployed entered the courthouse in a body in a protest, saying they were being "bluffed."

Mr. Monroe then discussed the situation with the men and said he would again try to get in touch with the unemployment committee, but had not done so at 1 o'clock.

 Spragge, Ont., Sept. 14.—Fire to-day had virtually destroyed this place after sweeping through the yards of the J. J. McFadden Lumber Company.

The inhabitants watched, and as the day wore on realized their homes were doomed. They rushed to get out their belongings and loaded them aboard a Canadian Pacific freight train which was passing through from Sault Ste. Marie.

Buildings lost by mid-afternoon included a schoolhouse, a general store and the home of J. J. McFadden, president of the lumber company.
 It was the third serious fire in lumber yards of this part of Ontario within a week.

Destruction of the lumber company's store swept the public relief organization bare of supplies. Food and clothing worth $15,000 were stored in the building.

Most of the town's 470 inhabitants were dependent on the store for sustenance.

but I think his comment would have been more completely truthful if he had said that, at heart, we were a nation of agriculturists, the Lieutenant-Governor commented.

RICH DISTRICT

"As I viewed the various exhibits just now with your president there was brought home to me, with added force, the realization that, on this peninsula, nature has given to us a district whose richness and resources are not properly appreciated for agriculture, whose climate and scenery cannot surely be surpassed in many quarters of the globe.
 The pioneer settler to settle in this district was a Scotman, who arrived in Victoria in 1854. In 1855 he made his way to North Saanichton by Indian trail, selected his ground near Mount Beaulieu, and "squatted" there, and I understood his farm is still being carried on by his descendants, whom, I must heartily congratulate."

"The journey to this farm from Victoria must have been a formidable undertaking for, after returning to Victoria, by Indian trail, he had to make a much more difficult journey of travel, but which nevertheless took him four days to accomplish. Four days, as a pioneer settler, he was an hour, the time it took me this afternoon to come out here!"

"Our pioneer ancestors undoubtedly suffered great hardships, but I would seem they enjoyed all the staple foods and many of those which, even to-day, are considered luxuries. I wonder, however, had Mr. Macken said had they, in those days, been confronted with an eighty-pound pumpkin."

MANY OPPORTUNITIES

"It has always seemed an extraordinary thing to me that a country like this, with its wealth of resources for feeding itself, should have continued for so long to import foodstuffs, livestock, grain and feeders to a value amounting to as much as $20,000,000 a year. There is hope that this tremendous importation will gradually be reduced, as one of the ultimate outcomes of the present conference, which has just been concluded. Preferences extended Canadian produce, and removal of irksome restriction on Canadian cattle, will surely have a speedy effect."

"Another factor is the growing demands of the vast population of the Orient for agricultural and dairy products. There is ample justification for the hope that in future years these demands will furnish a market which, as opposed to the unsaturated citizenry, is always available."

"Mr. Macken's error, however, lies partly in his misplacing of the emphasis in education. The materialistic and 'feeding' side of the problem is important, but not of first importance. Let me refer to two eminent British authorities:

(a) The Archbishop's fifth committee, which insists that the right to education, including higher education, should be determined primarily by the needs of the community, and not by the interests of the individual."

(b) Sir Henry Mowbray, who recently headed an outstanding educational commission in England, according to Sir Henry, real education primarily regards its recipients as spiritual beings rather than as farmers or lawyers or merchants or teachers. These recipients are boys or girls before, and will be men and women after, they have been fitted for economic livelihood. Common humanity, in other words, is the highest common factor of Sir Henry's views on education."

However, let us meet Mr. Macken on his materialistic grounds. Even here his deductions are quite misleading. point to higher education."

Principal Pile of Queen's University has pointed out that there can be no satisfactory point of comparison. THAN EDUCATION

000 of its proposed saving of $6,000,000. In other words, penalize the citizens of to-morrow for the mistakes and stupidities of their elders.

"Let us admit at the outset that there is some waste in our educational expenditures as there is in all branches of our public services, however well managed, or in every branch of human endeavor for that matter. Finite human beings make mistakes. It is impossible always to make 100 hits out of 100 attempts at the mark. Figures quoted below, however, will show that expenditures on education in British Columbia, even in boom years, were comparatively modest—especially in view of the fact that over 20 per cent of our entire population were attending school."

"But note one of the most startling economic fallacies of the Kidd report. What is a major source recommended for our financial ills? Swell the provincial revenues, in the first place, by curtailing education; and in the second place, bulge our finances through lowering alcoholic prices and effecting more convenient deliveries of booze."

"FEED UP INTOXICATION"

"In a word—cut down education, speed up intoxication! Of course it is well known—and I am not here discussing the ethical side of the question—that liquor, as a beverage, is a luxury. Furthermore, leading economists agree that fully 90 per cent of the liquor consumption in this or any country is economic waste. And yet the Kidd report recommends that the annual cost per pupil in average money be taken from educational grants, which promote necessary and constructive services, while at the same time that provincial revenues be swelled by facilitating liquor sales which are largely wasteful, if not ruinous, in their effect. Note the strange inconsistency in such alleged reasoning. The Kidd report is assured, by implication, to be swifter under the financial load of education, while it had yet more money to pay for a wasteful luxury—liquor. And yet B.C. annually spends over 40 per cent more for its liquor than for its education. One is astounded at a loss to follow the alleged logic of this report."

Mr. Macken should have looked through the other end of the telescope. Had he done so, he and his associates would not have exhibited such a perfect "misunderstanding of the social problem involved. Why not, for instance, point out that B.C. spends annually on liquor sixty (60) times the amount of its present government grant to the provincial university?"

"Then, too, Mr. Macken appears to deplore the fact that many people in this province are unable to afford to feed themselves. Possibly true. Likewise many of them would go naked if they had to clothe themselves, while more would probably go 'dry' if there were fewer opportunities to obtain liquor."

DIVISION OF LABOR

"But what has Mr. Macken's observation to do with the situation? Does he not believe in a division of labor? Will he not concede that in the terms of its digestible or physical values? Would he make all people 'feeders'? Shall we all become farmers? No doubt there are—and always will be—fewer opportunities to obtain liquor."

"However, Mr. Macken's observations in this regard are sheer nonsense. Furthermore, had Mr. Macken a better knowledge of the educational facts and factors involved, he would have known that there is a direct relationship between the educational level of the citizenry and the economic level of the state. Also Mr. Macken apparently has no data on the relative value, or liability, to society of the educated as opposed to the uneducated citizenry. Such data are available."

"Mr. Macken's error, however, lies partly in his misplacing of the emphasis in education. The materialistic and 'feeding' side of the problem is important, but not of first importance. Let me refer to two eminent British authorities:

(a) The Archbishop's fifth committee, which insists that the right to education, including higher education, should be determined primarily by the needs of the community, and not by the interests of the individual."

URGES INSURANCE FOR EMPLOYMENT

Roosevelt Tells U.S.
Farmers of His Plans

The specifications of Mr. Roosevelt's plan were:
 "First—The plan must provide for the producer of staple surplus commodities, such as wheat, cotton, corn (in the form of hogs) and tobacco, a tariff benefit over world prices which is equivalent to the benefit given by the tariff to industrial products.
 "Second—The plan must finance itself. Agriculture has at no time sought and does not now seek such access to the public treasury as was provided by the tariff and costly attempts at price stabilization by the Federal Farm Board.
 "Third—It must not make use of any mechanism which would cause the meeting fixed charges and that this fact should be considered in any comparison. Let us, therefore, view the matter from another angle. What is the annual cost per pupil in average attendance? For 1928-29, the figures were: Saskatchewan, $109.48; Manitoba, $88.66; British Columbia, $60.27; Ontario, $50.17. Comparatively, at least, British Columbia has not been extravagant in its educational expenditures—indeed quite less extravagant, on a per capita basis, than on her liquor expenditures, which the Kidd commission would increase as a source of greater revenue."

"Of course some may argue that a portion of the revenue from liquor sales goes to support education—presumably on the principle that it is justifiable to intoxicate in order to educate. But the fact of the matter is that the expenditure on the assistance of education is comparatively small in contrast with the huge economic waste involved.
 "However, the citizens of British Columbia are too intelligent to be deceived by the unsupported generalizations and sophistries lurking behind the educational recommendations of the Kidd report."

DECENTRALIZATION PLAN

"Fourth—It must make use of existing agencies, and so far as possible be decentralized in its administration.
 "Fifth—It must operate as nearly as possible on a co-operative basis and its effect must be to enhance and strengthen the co-operative movement.
 "Sixth—The plan must be voluntary. It must be voluntary, and the individual producer should at all times have the opportunity of non-participation if he so desires."

Premier Seeks "BEST MINDS"

Hamilton, Ont., Sept. 14.—At today's session of the annual meeting of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada here, J. F. Gymbont, of Nelson, B.C., attacked the suggested formation of a Union government in British Columbia. The government was intended, he declared, to destroy social and labor legislation. The present government, he charged, had failed to explain the disappearance of $2,000,000 in relief funds and other matters involving large sums of money.

"BETRAYED PARTY"

Vancouver, Sept. 14.—Strong criticism of Premier S. F. Tolmie was voiced in a resolution passed with only three dissenting votes at a meeting of the Union One Conservative Association in the Elks' Hall on Tuesday night. There were nearly 150 members present.

The resolution followed a short speech by F. N. Raines, president, in which he declared that Premier Tolmie had "betrayed" the Conservative Party. Mr. Raines also declared that patronage of the "wrong kind" was rampant under Premier Tolmie's administration.

The Premier was accused of ignoring his party, not only in deciding in favor of union government, but also in connection with advice offered on other matters on various occasions.
 The resolution declared that all requests for a convention of the party to review the work of the leader and demand explanations were consistently and unconstitutionally blocked by Premier Tolmie and certain members of his cabinet.

"We deplore the fact that he has made no effort to carry out the mandate of policy laid down at the Kamloops convention," the resolution adds, "and hereby record our complete lack of confidence in any new form of administration under his leadership."
 The resolution was moved by J. E. Clancy and seconded by E. J. McPherson.

Labor Congress of Canada
Adopts Report Recommending Continuance of Efforts

By Jack Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Hamilton, Sept. 14.—Fratern delegates from the British Trades Union Congress and the American Federation of Labor, together with Hon. J. C. Arcand, Quebec Minister of Labor, occupied the attention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada during part of today's session of its annual convention here. Shortly after noon the convention adjourned until to-morrow, the delegates being entertained by members of the Hamilton Trades and Labor Council.

An important discussion on unemployment is scheduled for early to-morrow.

INSURANCE URGED

Shortly after the session opened to-day, the report of the committee on legislative activity was adopted. The report recommended continuance of efforts for unemployment insurance and for the improvement of the Hamilton Trades and Labor Council.

An important discussion on unemployment is scheduled for early to-morrow.

COAL TRADE

A national coal policy was the aim of organized labor, declared Tom Moore, president of the congress, in referring to the Canadian coal situation. The attitude of the congress on the question of Russian coal was already known, said Mr. Moore. Raines had attended the activities of the congress to get subsidies from the government for the movement of coal from Nova Scotia and Alberta to Ontario.

 The executive will also discuss the urging upon the provincial government of immediate action to secure for itself and B.C. municipalities relief under "Bulldozing" which provides for advancement of loans for relief from the Dominion Government.

It is expected the municipal union will again press for appointment of an accredited federal agent on relief for British Columbia.

Reve W. A. Pritchard of Burnaby is scheduled to give his report of the recent municipal-provincial conference with Premier Bennett in Calgary.

These will include: "A Song of Thanksgiving," "Soldier's Rest," "London Town," "Morning," "Greetings to Spring," "Come to the Fair," "Love's Old Sweet Song" and the "Bridal Chorus." The choir is under the direction of Joseph Maguire.

A very special invitation is extended to visitors to see behind the scenes, including the power generators, refrigeration plant, grocery packing house, fur storage vaults, restaurant kitchens, telephone exchange and the many other points of interest which the general public have not usually the opportunity to visit.

BOMB THREAT IS NOT CARRIED OUT

Associated Press
Portland, Sept. 14.—Federal and military officials who refused to permit their names to be published, said written threats to bomb not only the reviewing stand during the national American Legion parade here yesterday, but sections of the parade as well, were received Monday. These threats failed to materialize.
A copy of a letter reputedly from a "Red" organization here to members was sent to an official Monday by an anonymous writer who, informants said, had apparently become conscience-stricken. It is said to have contained an order to bomb the reviewing stand in which Secretary of War Patrick Hurley and prominent federal, state and city officials were seated.
Bombing of the Centrals, Wash. delegation also was mentioned. The stadium was guarded during all of Monday night to prevent the planting of any bombs.

BRAZIL REBELS CLAIM GAINS

Associated Press
Sao Paulo, Brazil, Sept. 14.—The revolutionary high command here today denied reports of the federal government at Rio de Janeiro saying federal troops had taken the city of Cruzeiro and the Mantiqueira railway tunnel nearby.
Both these points command communication lines into the rebel state of Sao Paulo from the north and east. On the other hand, the rebel headquarters said, their troops had recaptured the towns of Macao, Cascavel and Sao Jao da Boyista from the federalists.

LOWER INTEREST URGED FOR LOANS

Canadian Press
Montreal, Sept. 14.—"Conversion of a large portion of the national debt to an interest rate not higher than 3 per cent, and Dominion-backed conversion of loans effected by municipalities of more than 100,000 population to the same interest level, would be a 'foundation for cheaper money and consequently the first real step toward better times.'"

This opinion was expressed by Alderman Joseph Schubert, prominent labor member of the Montreal city council, who yesterday evening announced his intention of calling on the Dominion Government to carry out the suggested conversions. Mr. Schubert did not, however, reveal just what plan his campaign would follow.

AUDITORS HID INSULL LOSSES

Chicago, Sept. 14.—Auditors who found the deficit of $226,510,976 in the accounts of the Insull Utility Investments Inc., said they found "inconsistency in the accounting records of the company" and suggested consistent records through the years of the investment company's operations in Insull Utility Securities would have shown losses throughout the period.

The report listed assets at only $27,428,264.
George A. Cooke and Calvin Pentecost are the receivers of the once gigantic investment trust, first of the Insull houses to make its financial report to the United States district court since the Insull structure collapsed last June.

Auditors asserted "income from cash dividends and interest has been insufficient to meet operating expenses and interest charges since 1929."
These operations at a loss covered the entire period of the company's organization, the audit indicated. The investment company was formed January 1, 1929, and federal judge Walter C. Lindley appointed the receivers April 15 of this year.

Other documents in connection with the projected recognition of Manchukuo by Japan on September 15 were approved by the council in the presence of the Emperor.
The ceremony sealing the arrangement, which will provide also for mutual respect of territorial sovereignty, will be held at Changchun, capital of the new state headed by the former Boy Emperor of China, Henry Pu Yi.

ANTI-SEMITISM IS DENOUNCED

Montreal Judge Speaks of Articles in Three Weekly Papers.

Canadian Press
Montreal, Sept. 14.—Although he found it necessary on legal grounds to dismiss an application for an injunction against an anti-semitic campaign carried on in three Montreal weeklies, Mr. Justice G. Desautels in a judgment yesterday roundly denounced the articles.
The injunction was sought by E. Abugov, a Jewish merchant. The articles appeared in Le Goglu, Le Miroir and Le Chameau, which J. Menard was described as the publisher.
Mr. Justice Desautels expressed regret that with the law as it stood it was not possible for him to grant the application. The general principle was that defamation of a class of people or a race was not actionable.
"The Jewish race is marvellously endowed," he commented, "Despite its faults—and who has none?—it offers for our contemplation this fact, unique and stupendous in history, of a people surviving the empires which conquered it."

JUDGE SAYS ALL SHOULD HAVE JOBS

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, Sept. 14.—Failure of society to provide young men with employment was blamed by Judge L. St. G. Stubbs here yesterday for making criminals of penit-day youths.
After listening to William Streiks and John Saakko plead guilty to breaking into a bakery, Judge Stubbs launched into an attack on society. "A lot of this thing can be expected unless young men are put to work or allowed to enter educational institutions," the judge declared.
"When school boards shut off full classes," said the judge, "they are making criminals. There is a criminal responsibility on them. Youth will become demoralized and degenerate."
The accused were sentenced to three months' imprisonment dating from the time of their arrest, August 10.

Ottawa, Sept. 14.—Department of Indian Affairs officials are of the opinion there are more Indians in Canada now than when the first white man landed in this country. The 1931 census of the Dominion gave the total number of red men as 122,920, compared with the last departmental total of 108,012. Ontario led with 30,368 Indians and British Columbia was second with 24,599.

NEW TEAR GAS GUN

Chicago, Sept. 14.—Pay-roll robbers are going to shed a lot of tears. A new type of tear gun, so small it can be concealed in a coat sleeve and reputedly of sufficient power to route a whole gang of payroll robbers, was demonstrated at the Northwestern University crime detection laboratory yesterday. It is fastened to the wrist like a strap watch. A fine wire leads from the trigger to a ring in the middle finger. All one needs to do is lift up the arm and flick the finger and the trick is done.

WARSHIPS SALUTE AT OLD QUEBEC

British Cruiser and French Craft Mark 173rd Anniversary of Battle of Plains of Abraham

Quebec, Sept. 14.—Exactly 173 years ago yesterday the British and French armies met in the memorable battle of the Plains of Abraham. British forces, commanded by General James Wolfe, were victorious over the French army under the Marquis de Montcalm, on September 13, 1759, and New France became a British colony.

Yesterday the shadow of the heights on which the battle was fought, salutes were exchanged between the Heliotrope of the America and West Indies Squadron of the British navy and the French sloop Ville D'Ya. As the British warship slowly nosed into the inner basin of Quebec Harbor and passed the Ville D'Ya guards lined up on the decks of both craft and salutes were exchanged, bands played their respective national anthems.

OFFICIAL VISITS
Later in the day, Commander G. W. Wadham of the Heliotrope paid official visits to Lieutenant - Governor H. G. Carroll, Premier L. A. Taschereau and Major H. E. Levesque of Quebec.

The Ville D'Ya concluded a week's stay in the harbor of the ancient capital and left for Montreal.

So owners of "Little Bit" volunteered her service.

1099-10 GOVERNMENT STREET

COUNCIL WANTS FREE LICENSES

Port Alberni Asks Province to Give Workless Free Hunting Permits

Special to The Times
Port Alberni, Sept. 14.—The city council has appealed to the Attorney-General to make no charge to unemployed for hunting licenses this year, in order that workless men may obtain meat. The council will also suggest that there be no open season on game for the next year or two, if necessary. Alderman Harris said the relief committee of the provincial government should be warned that, unless assistance to local unemployed is forthcoming soon, the city of Port Alberni will be constrained to throw up its charter and revert to the government. A comprehensive statement of the city's finances and unemployed conditions will be forwarded to the executive of the Union of B.C. Municipalities, for its forthcoming meeting with the executive council.

The finance committee reported that it had discussed the revised Shop Hours By-law as submitted by local merchants, but that the majority were not in favor of it.

The council sought to help unemployed whose property is listed for sale for delinquent taxes. The aldermen felt that something should be done to remedy the situation, but the Municipal Act compelled the city clerk to put the property up for sale. It was finally decided that work should be found for some of those whose homes were likely to be sold, and in this way allow them to work off their taxes.

The Works Department and the fire, water and light departments have spent all funds allowed them in the budget. How to carry on until the end of the year was discussed at a special committee meeting held after the regular session.

A story from Chicago says that Mr. Dawes has at last discarded his pipe. Maybe his best friend finally decided to tell him.

ADOLF HITLER THROWS OUT HIS PARTY'S CHALLENGE

Although the date of Germany's fifth major election this year is a secret closely guarded by the government of Chancellor von Papen, the Nazis under Adolf Hitler have begun their campaign by warning the opposition parties that they will meet all opponents "in the way they deserve and must expect." Hitler says "attack is the best means of defence," and "any suppressive measures against us will be a weapon that will turn on the oppressor." Meanwhile, President Paul von Hindenburg is annoyed because Hermann Goering, the Nazi president of the Reichstag, is demanding the resignation of the government in view of the overwhelming vote of no confidence recorded on Monday.

To-day's statement from Hitler is to all intents and purposes a challenge to President Hindenburg and a ministry which seems to be able to persuade him to do his bidding no matter what it is. Chancellor von Papen still has control of the police and the army; but to what extent the two forces would obey orders in the event of a serious emergency is a doubtful point. A clash of arms, for instance, might reveal that there are among the police and in the army many supporters of the Hitler cause, and who on such an occasion would not hesitate to let it be known. No matter how the situation is considered, however, each day's developments emphasize the serious threat of civil war.

THE "BONUS ARMY" NOW HAS ITS INNINGS

The annihilation of the "bonus army" encampment by tear gas bombs and other paraphernalia of the Department of War at Washington has become one of the major issues of the presidential campaign in the United States, so much so that President Hoover and his government have had to do a lot of explaining. An official report has recently been issued in justification of the government's drastic measures, which says that a large proportion of the occupants of the bonus army's camp not only were not veterans but were convicts, malefactors and communists.

Opponents of Mr. Hoover's administration have been prompt in making the inevitable retort to this pronouncement. They point out that if any of the bonus agitators were criminals they should have been dealt with by the police in the ordinary way long before the Secretary of State for War ordered out the cavalry, the tanks and the other agencies of a first-class conflict, and that in any case those who were genuine veterans with their wives and children should not have been subjected to this extraordinary measure because others may have been imposters.

This incident is going to do the present Washington administration a great deal of political damage throughout the country, whereas the government thought it would have quite the contrary effect. In that respect it is plain enough that while Mr. Hoover and his associates may have properly appraised the views of the powerful minority interests who have been close to them, they were utterly unable to envisage the reactions of the vast majority of the public to their militant methods. The Bourbon mind is incapable of appreciating the elementary fact that most people anywhere object to governments calling out armies to suppress delegations which annoy them, or any other elements which can be dealt with by the ordinary agencies of routine law administration.

THESE CHILDREN NEED PROTECTION FROM THEIR PARENTS

While the rescue of the Hutchinson party, whose plane was forced down off the Greenland coast, has brought relief to many people, there should be an insistent demand that steps be taken to prevent parents subjecting little children to the perils of stunt expeditions of this kind. If adults want to risk their own lives in flying across the ocean it is their affair, but they should not be permitted to involve in that risk youngsters who are unable to appreciate the hazards and who, even if they could do so, would have to make the trip just the same.

In embarking on this adventure the Hutchinsons wanted to project themselves into history as the first complete family to span the Atlantic by airplane. They wanted to do something new and novel. Solos, duets and trios were stale, so why not a whole family orchestra? Opinions may differ as to the value of the bubble renown attached to a first family flight across the Atlantic, but there should not be any difference of opinion over the proposition that the lives of the children in the party were of much greater importance in every way. There seems to be no limit to the craziness which the present generation of mankind is able to exhibit.

BUSINESS OPTIMISM IN GREAT BRITAIN A HEARTENING FACTOR

From Great Britain comes a distinct note of economic optimism and the suggestion that the increase in commodity prices is a reliable indication that the worst stage of the world depression has been left behind. One dispatch says rubber, copper, tin, wheat, sugar, and wool are all on the upgrade and speculators intimate that the rise can not now be checked, whatever temporary setbacks may be due to profit-taking.

This is good news because in the present economic state of the world an improvement in any country like Great Britain, with her 45,000,000 people, sooner or later must be reflected by improvements in other countries, especially those of Europe. Canada, of course, reacts more quickly to economic developments in the United States. Conditions in the neighboring republic are still not very bright; but there are definite signs that matters are improving there.

As far as Britain is concerned, the reports of the various banking institutions say the country is now substantially stronger economically than it was a year ago. There is a large amount of capital available at cheap rates for industrial and other investments. In other words, Britain seems to be in excellent shape to take prompt advantage of any marked upward trend in business.

INSIDE NEWS FROM OUR CITY COUNCIL

One of our aldermen in advocating the adoption of June 23, the birthday of the Prince of Wales, as Victoria's annual holiday, intimated that he had advice from the Old Council indicating that important changes in the British royal family were impending. This is inside news with a vengeance, and we ought to have more of it. No doubt the British royal family would be equally interested. Meanwhile, if the Victoria City Council feels that next year's holiday is a sufficiently important matter at this time to call for any considerable attention, we suggest that it proceed on the assumption that the only possible dynastic changes in Great Britain could be those which are dictated by nature, and that there is every indication that King George the Fifth will be on the throne not only this time next year but for many years thereafter. In that case the chief factor in the determination of the date of our yearly celebration should be the weather, which, like the old gray mare, is "not what it used to be" on May 24.

HERE IS A DISH OF SOYA-BEAN AND RABBIT

A shortage in our neighbor's livestock and a similar falling off in the raising, transporting, and storing of fruit and vegetables, it seems, so The Literary Digest says, has greatly cut down the national food supply of Soviet Russia. To meet the emergency the Soviet authorities are relying, on the soya-bean and the rabbit.

Posters and newspaper headlines all over the country blazon forth the bright possibilities of rabbit-breeding, a Moscow correspondent of The London Observer tells us, while the soya-bean, hitherto grown mostly in Manchuria, is being more and more widely cultivated in the Soviet Union. But the soya-bean made a bad beginning as a dietary reform. We read then:

"In Kiev a compound of sausage and soya-bean met with little popular favor, while in Odessa a diet of soya-bean courses, offered morning, noon, and night, soon surfeited the diners in public restaurants. One cook even labeled an unsavory soya-bean preparation, 'the dish of the second Five-Year plan,' which led to an investigation of his political past and a discovery that he was not an enthusiast for the Soviet regime."

"If the main difficulties with the use of soya-beans are in the field of proper preparation, the relief of the meat shortage by a large injection of stewed and boiled rabbit has been delayed by many instances of neglect and carelessness in breeding and caring for the rabbits."

"All in all, the provisioning of the country with such novel articles of diet as rabbits and soya-beans seems to encounter as many difficulties as the supply with such more conventional foodstuffs as meat, dairy products, fruit, and vegetables."

Most assuredly if the twenty million acres of lands in the P.G.E. reserved area and Peace River block are as rich in oil, minerals and agricultural resources as they are stated to be, the government should hang on to them with deathless tenacity for the purpose of developing them in the public interest. If the black sands alone of that vast area have an estimated value of $300,000,000, we would be crazy if we sold the lands for $1.50 an acre.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

IS CANADA DRIFTING TOWARD STATE SOCIALISM?
 The Winnipeg Free Press

The consuming public is to be turned over to a particular industry. This industry is to be given the monopoly of supplying their wants along certain lines. It will be the judge of the quality, the pattern and the style, the price to which the public will be obliged to submit. It will decide what profits it requires. It will make such arrangements for increased efficiency as seems good to it. Subject to all these conditions, the people will be allowed to buy and wear cottons. There is just one more step to go; and it is odd that it has never occurred to the cotton magnates that, if the theory is sound, it is bound to be taken one of these days. If the Canadian people exist for the purpose of wearing Canadian cottons to the supposed end, that wealth will thus be created and work supplied, why not nationalize the business and turn the profit in to the state? The inevitable end of protection as it is now tending is State Socialism.

RAILROADS ONLY HALF USED
 The New York Times

It is clear that the greatest need of the transportation companies is not new equipment, but an opportunity to make better use of what they have. As the Association of Railway Executives said in its recent "manifesto" to the public: "Never at any time were the railroads better equipped to serve the public than today." With a plant capable of carrying the peak load at all times, and with 1,500,000 skilled employees, the railways are now used to less than half their demonstrated capacity. Recovery of traffic will depend upon improvement of business. But the position of the carriers would be strengthened if a programme of legislation, long urged as desirable, should receive favorable attention by Congress, when it reconvenes.

Loose Ends

Hard-boiled Willie is vindicated at last—Real pictures grow under the dome beside the unreal ones nearby—but there are others no artist would paint—and they must be conveyed in poetry.

By H. B. W.

A LOT of sincere and worthy people think I am a dangerous maniac in any matter more complicated and intelligent than tilling the soil of Saanich or playing with the little girl from next door. I just learned to-day, for instance, that at a certain private hotel a circle of delightful old ladies, transcribing the initials at the head of their column, call me Hard Boiled Willie, and spend their evenings deploring me, and my effect on society at large. It must be a nice way to spend an evening. Another lady told me very earnestly that I just used the innocent little girl from next door as a subterfuge and excuse to drag my vile theories before the public. What a relief it is, therefore, to find that the wildest notions and most dangerous doctrines have been endorsed by an organ of respectability, a voice of sanity and conservatism.

LISTEN to this: "The average citizen of British Columbia is probably willing enough to economize—he has learned how to do so—but he is asking himself with increasing frequency why it should be necessary for him and his children not only to bear the whole burden but to forego certain of the amenities and privileges they are paying for, while the demands of money (interest on borrowed money) continue to be met in full and more than in full. And he doesn't have to be a 'Red' or a Bolshevik to ask these questions."

THIS SOUNDS like some of the wildest notions of Hard Boiled Willie, for it strikes at the central and vital principle of our whole economic system. I won't keep you in the dark any longer. That paragraph is from an editorial in The Vancouver Province. It wants to know, in brief, why the obligation of the state to pay interest on borrowings (at increasing rates and in appreciated dollars) should be any more sacred than its obligation to maintain the life and comfort of its citizens; why money should be more free from the consequences of men's folly than men are themselves. It is a question which many people have been asking but, as it is an impertinence to all the accepted laws of economics and rules of society, no one likes to ask it out loud. I am glad to see it in respectable print at last. It shows you that Willie isn't as wild, and hard-boiled as a lot of people have imagined.

WHENEVER the atmosphere of the Parliament Buildings becomes too much for me, and the mists of recent upheavals quite before my brain and the craftsmen of politics leave me in a state of utter bewilderment, I like to go down under the great dome and watch another kind of craftsman at work. Under the big dome of Seaside, Southwells is making progress these days with his mural paintings. It is a wonder, though, that he can make any progress at all with so many people to interrupt him; to stand at his elbow and ask idiotic questions which he answers quite cheerfully. More people seem to be watching Mr. Southwells than the government. More people seem to be interested in the association history of British Columbia, as brought to life with his brush, than in the modern history as brought to life in a new form every day by the newspapers. Most of them don't know what Mr. Southwells is trying to do, or how he is doing it. They have no understanding of his composition, his coloring or his perspective, but they seem to get a kick out of seeing a big picture grow, day by day, bit by bit, with many changes and treasures unveiled, although posterity will never suspect it, there will be a small army of discarded figures painted out under the color of those finally adopted.

THERE IS one hard-boiled old trapper in the first completed picture who has had seven different faces in as many weeks, and Mr. Southwells is not sure that he will let him keep the present one. The poor fellow has varied from a young strapping to an ancient greybeard and then back again through every stage of maturity, of villainy and of virtue. At one time he was alert, at another half asleep, at another heroic, at another as stupid as an owl. I have a feeling that he is not going to keep his present head long. That is the way with painters, never satisfied with their work, never content to leave a person alone, always fiddling about to improve him.

ANYWAY, THE casual passer-by is fascinated by this practical demonstration of art in the making as he would never be by a completed picture. I don't suppose he analyzes his feelings, but he is interested. I think, to see a man actually making something with his own hands and his own skill, something which cannot be made with a machine. Such things are so rare now-a-days that they cause surprise and delight, as if they were something new and almost unnatural; whereas they are older than history and the most natural thing in the world. If men were still doing such things for their living, instead of operating machines all the time, they would get a continual kick out of living. And there wouldn't be that misery of soul which prevails in other parts of the buildings while Mr. Southwells is patiently interpreting life under the dome.

IT HAS JUST occurred to me, in a moment of patriotism, that there are pictures of British Columbia's current history which should be added to the walls of Parliament, not only as matters of record, but to add a note of innocent cheer to the dull lives of our modern citizenry. It is all very well, I mean to picture the landing of Sir James Douglas on these shores from a rowboat, but why not a really worthwhile picture of the Kidd Committee landing from a private yacht? Apparently there should be a large panel depicting the salaried Pacific Great Eastern Railway, painted in soft and misty tones, the whole occasion, perhaps, interpreted as dreamy landscape, with the actual transaction hidden under a cloud. Then again, Mr. Southwells' spirited picture of Captain Vancouver meeting the Spanish commander at Nootka would be well indeed beside the meeting of Dr. Tolmie and Mr. Bower at Cloverdale. And finally, what a chance for the imaginative artist to paint the forming of a union government by Dr. Tolmie and Mr. Pattullo. But I fear no artist is equal to the task, not even a futurist, a post-impressionist, a cubist or a cubist.

BEST OF ALL would be a picture of the British Columbia voter, shipwrecked on the barren shore, trying to pierce the fog and see where he has landed in the political confusion of the last few days. Perhaps he would be appealing for enlightenment to the premier, who would promise an official statement shortly. I feel the occasion should be celebrated—in passionate poetry.

Said the voter, "The thing's very queer. What I'm doing, I have no idea. Before you reform me, As to lighten my mind, And state where I go to from here?"
 "At the moment my poor head just reels And you're deaf, Mr. all my appeals. It'll be tough, it'll be a lovely combination and it's fairly plain to see that a Conservative-Liberal Government will be the end of old B.C."

(From The Times File)
 At a meeting of the Liberals of Victoria held yesterday evening—Hon. W. Templeman gave a strong address in which he dealt with the question of Oriental immigration. He also spoke on several aids to navigation.

The Russian Imperial yacht Standart, with Emperor Nicholas, the Empress and their family on board, is fast on the rocks off Horvath Point, on the coast west of Kanga, Finland.

In the face of promised litigation the Board of School Trustees yesterday evening decided to abide by its former decision in respect to Chinese children, namely, to exclude all who cannot understand sufficient English to make themselves subject to discipline, from the city schools.

An attempt is to be made to transplant lobsters from the Atlantic to the Pacific, with the view of this fish being propagated naturally and thus introduced a new and valuable industry in British Columbia.

Weather forecast for Victoria and vicinity—light to moderate winds, generally fair with higher temperatures.

The epidemic of infantile paralysis which is ravaging New York City at the present time is assuming alarming proportions, according to hospital which have the disease under observation in the hope of discovering the germ which is supposed to be responsible for the infection. At the present time there are between 300 and 400 children in various hospitals undergoing treatment, and most of them will be hopeless cripples for life.

THE VOTER'S LAMENT

To the Editor:—When the Conservatives were elected about four years ago, they told us if they were placed in power they'd very quickly show how good efficient government our burdens soon would lighten. Our taxes would be lower and our prospects sure would brighten.

But we, poor boobies, what do we find? Our taxes have gone higher and instead of getting out of debt, we're deeper in the mire. So now they're in a ghastly mess and the remedy they propose is to form a union government, to lead us by the nose and fool us once again, because we've found one bunch enough, but when both parties work together, good heavens, it will be tough, it'll be a lovely combination and it's fairly plain to see that a Conservative-Liberal Government will be the end of old B.C.

JAM

To the Editor:—In to-night's paper you are carrying a letter commenting upon the housewife of to-day making jam for the hard winter ahead. Of course, every mother likes to make jam for the family, providing she has the fruit and sugar to do it with, but what if she has not the means to do it with? My husband is an oil refiner and we live in a house without a garden, bar a few flowers, and have no possible way of getting any fruit to make jam of.

I see all kinds of fruit going to waste on trees in vacant lots and in people's gardens, apples, pears and plums. If we could have this fruit, think of the waste that would be done away with and the jam and jelly that would result and the youngsters (big and small) who would be made happy this winter, for we all still like to eat, especially "home-made jam." So can't we do something about it?

UNITED STATES ELECTIONS

To the Editor:—In re your editorial of the 6th on the presidential election in the United States; Do not attach too much importance to the utterances of the Hearst newspapers. Hearst is biased and his staff is paid to misrepresent the facts.

It is preposterous to see the great Republican states of Pennsylvania, Michigan and California in the Democratic column of the straw vote. These states have been giving several hundred thousands of votes as a Republican majority in every presidential election for a decade. They won't be there long.

The great states of New York, New Jersey and Ohio, first shown to be Democratic, have veered to the Republican column. Others will follow. The presidential election will not be a contest of Roosevelt vs. Hoover, nor Wet vs. Dry, but one between a "Solid South" vs. a "Solid North."

Every northern state, except Wisconsin and Nevada, where local conditions inimical to the Republican Party events, will go Republican.

VICTORIA, B.C., September 14, 1932.

QUAINT VICTORIA

To the Editor:—Everyone has heard the Seattle gentleman with the "redundant voice" inviting his countrymen to visit "quaint old Victoria, brogue in its old-world shops" and have an altogether jolly old time in this "little bit of England on the Pacific." It has been impossible to get away from that voice; it roared from a thousand open windows, and I have heard more than once in the comparative privacy of my backyard at its "browns, in her old-world shops."

but not until last Sunday morning did I realize the devastating effects of this blithering babble. On that morning I went to the Outer Wharf on my bicycle. Quite a number of people from the San Francisco boat were taking advantage of their short stay to make the acquaintance of our city, and I was above the first thing they encountered. By Jove, they were delighted. Was I quaint? Was not that bicycle just too precious for words?—the old thing, just imagine, at least forty years behind the times. (I say it, it is nothing of the sort—right up to date—three-speed gears and all that sort of bally rot.)

Happily, before I had blushed to extinction, the attention of the visitor was transferred to a little girl making her way to the corner "shop," bottle in hand, for the morning milk. As a matter of fact the little girl was quaint. She had not taken time to perform her morning ablutions, her hair had not been combed, and she was quite unprepared to be presented as another specimen of Victoria's quaintness. And the corner shop? It was "priceless." In fact, the entire broken-down, old-world appearance of this part of Victoria vindicated the loud speaker from Seattle. The visitor returned to their boat quite satisfied! Great publicity? OLD THING.

THE COSMIC OUTLOOK

To the Editor:—As a voluntary member of the new school of Free Thought, I cannot let Mr. Ekman's letter of September 6, pass into oblivion without a few words of comment and interrogation.

Mr. Ekman's sweeping condemnation of the modern conceptions of matter, origin of life, astronomy and human behavior can only be ascribed to simple ignorance of the important changes, and altered outlook we are about to enjoy regarding our relation to the cosmic whole.

It is clear to anyone of normal intellect that Mr. Ekman belongs to the old school of religious doctrine, which refuses to broaden their minds in this world gone topsy-turvy in its attempt to keep abreast of progress, as they cling pathetically to a myth. Such people, since the beginning of this civilization, have retarded world progress, via, religious decrees, wars, etc. Does Mr. Ekman limit his literary tastes to Scriptural writings, that chaotic morass of misleading phraseology, with just an occasional dash of newspaper versions and extracts, of the recent works of celebrated scientists?

MANY AWARDS AT SAANICHTON

Fine Exhibition Includes Excellent Display of Women's Work; Prize Awards

The sixty-fourth annual exhibition of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society opened yesterday at Saanichton Hall and most of the judging had been completed by nightfall. While the entries in most sections are not so numerous as in other years the quality is excellent, especially in the divisions devoted to women's work and household arts.

Facing the entry is a display of cups offered for competition at the fair, the array of more than a dozen trophies, including a new cup offered by the Saanich Farmers' Society for old-time quadrilles, for which at least five groups of dancers have entered. There is a fine exhibit of Indian work, including woodwork, basketwork, bead and leatherwork, quilts and garments, bread, fresh and preserved fruits, vegetables and flowers. An item of interest is an ornate costume used in the native dance rituals.

In the gallery are displays of women's work, the bread, cakes and pastries are protected by sheets of cellophane and the judges declared this section to be the finest of its kind ever anywhere. As is usual at Saanichton, there is a large display of potatoes, the entries being of excellent quality. The competition in the egg sections was surprisingly keen, there being sixty-two dozen on view in the various classes. W. Hagger, the judge, warmly praised the display, especially in view of the extensive culling of commercial flocks which has been in progress in recent months throughout southern Vancouver Island.

The Dominion laboratory of plant pathology at the Sidney Experimental Farm had a demonstration of various plant diseases and their treatment. The Saanich Health Centre occupies part of the platform with a nursing exhibit and baby layette.

The display of apples is especially fine, the numerous exhibits having excellent size and color. There are also many fine examples of other tree fruits.

A. M. Scott won the J. W. Tolmie Challenge Cup offered for collections of vegetables and the fine display of flowers which adorns the central table attracted much attention.

The livestock will be judged to-day, the ribbons for cattle and horses being awarded this afternoon in open-air rings, in the presence of visitors to the fair.

The judges were: Vegetables, E. W. White; fruit, L. E. Taylor; flowers, George A. Robinson; field crops, Professor E. M. Straight; horses, J. Turner; cattle, sheep and hogs, Professor M. King, U.B.C.; goats, Tom Pearce; poultry, Rev. C. McDiarmid; rabbits, Capt. H. B. Babin; eggs, William Hagger; domestic science, Mrs. M. L. The; women's work, Mrs. L. M. Abbott; dressed poultry, C. H. White; honey, Professor E. M. Straight; school work, E. M. Clarke and J. R. Jones, and photography, T. Waterworth.

MOOSE WOMEN
GIVE BANQUET

Representatives of Nanaimo, Vancouver and Seattle chapters were the guests of honor at the very successful banquet held by Victoria Chapter No. 25, Women of the Moose, in the K. of C. Hall, Monday evening, and attended by about seventy-five members. The guests included a large delegation from the Nanaimo Chapter No. 197, District Deputy Grand Recorder Dean of British Columbia and also representing Vancouver Chapter No. 130, Mrs. P. Croci of Seattle Chapter No. 48. The tables, which were artistically decorated with flowers of white, red and purple, made a striking contrast to the background of flowers in which the hall was decorated. At the officers' table Mrs. Dean, Mrs. Plummer, Mrs. Muir and Senior Regent A. Hatcher received corsage bouquets of roses and sweet peas. The toast to the King was proposed by Senior Regent A. Hatcher. Mrs. Elsom gave the toast to the visitors, Mrs. M. Robinson responding.

After the banquet a meeting was held at 8 o'clock, Senior Regent A. Hatcher presiding. The general routine of business was carried through, there being two candidates initiated, Mrs. Sparks for reinstatement and Miss V. Goodwill to become a member. The drill team, under the leadership of Captain Lumley, gave a demonstration of all degree work. All members and committees were thanked for the splendid co-operation and help rendered for the banquet.

VISITORS SPEAK
Mrs. Dean, who is prominent in the work of the Canadian chapters of the Women of the Moose, gave a very interesting talk on the work of the Women of the Moose. Mrs. P. Croci, treasurer of the Seattle Chapter No. 48, also thanked the chapter for its hospitality and extended the regrets of District Deputy Grand Recorder Kellogg of Washington for not being able to attend. Senior Regent Plummer of Nanaimo also thanked the chapter on behalf of Nanaimo and presented Senior Regent A. Hatcher with a lovely bouquet of flowers and a small gift as a token of their appreciation. Mrs. Dean also being presented with a gift from Nanaimo. Mrs. Muir and Mrs. Clark also gave brief addresses.

At the 9 o'clock service, which was attended by the Master of the Lodge, 53, Mrs. Muir of Nanaimo Chapter sweetly sang "Mooseheart." It was arranged to hold a whist drive on the next meeting night, September 26. The finish of business the brother legionnaires were invited into the chapter room and Mrs. Muir sang a few selections for which she was greatly thanked. Remarks and short talks were made by various brothers and also by Brother Scadden of Prince Rupert Lodge, a visitor.

On the closing of the meeting three cheers were given for Nanaimo, Vancouver, Seattle and Victoria. It will be remembered for many days, as it is seldom that during a small gathering representation of four lodges being present those being: District Deputy Grand Recorder Dean of British Columbia and Vancouver, Senior Regent Plummer and legionnaires of Nanaimo, Mrs. P. Croci of Seattle and Brother Scadden of Prince Rupert.

Woman Dies After Four-foot Fall

Cornwall, Ont., Sept. 14.—A four-foot fall from a veranda caused fatal injuries to Mrs. R. J. Riddell, sixty-three, of Kemptonville. She died in a hospital here. The rocking chair in which she was sitting slipped from the veranda, throwing her to the ground.

AN APPRECIATION!

The bride, a native daughter of Victoria, was given in marriage by her father, grateful in a gown of powder blue silk crepe, fashioned in long slim design. Her bouquet was composed of Ophelia roses and spiral ferns in trailing effect.

Mrs. Eva Bestwick as matron of honor, and Miss Winnie Williams of Victoria, cousin of the bride, were the attendants, both gowned in floral chiffon on a rose and jade ground. Rev. T. H. McAllister performed the ceremony beneath a white wedding bell in an alcove formed in the drawing room of masses of fragrant summer blossoms. Mr. Albert Bestwick of Qualicum supported the bridegroom as best man.

Following the service, a reception for immediate relatives of both families and intimate friends was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. An illuminated wedding bell was suspended over the bride and groom, who were seated at a four-tiered wedding cake. Later in the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Jensen left for Qualicum, the bride wearing for traveling an ivory sports suit, with hat to match. They will take up residence at Qualicum.

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDERD

MODERATE AMOUNTS OF
CANDY NOT HARMFUL

Candy, because it is almost universally enjoyed, is capable of misuse by parents. They offer it as a reward, thus exaggerating its difference from plain foods whose eating must be enforced. To deprive the child of it utterly is again to invest it with a quality it should not possess, that of a forbidden treat. Candy is bound to be more or less of a temptation in any child's life unless the mother treats it as she treats all foods as something to be eaten at regular meal times and not in exaggerated amounts.

CANDY AND ICE CREAM

Mrs. T. S. wants to know what I think of the following attitude: "I have been reading your column for a long time, and I wish you'd write an article about candy. I know a mother who says her child shall never know the taste of candy. Once when the child's grandparents gave her some, this mother nearly had a fit. Is this just a mother's vanity being satisfied when she says proudly, 'My children have no candy'?"

Please discuss ice cream. This mother says her doctor told her he was busy all summer treating children for intestinal troubles caused by eating ice cream. My child has had it since his first year, and it has never hurt him. Is frozen milk dangerous after it is thawed out? I shall thank you for a discussion of these subjects, Mrs. Elderd.

MODERATE AMOUNTS

One's own good sense and everyday observation indicate that candy eaten in moderate quantities is harmful to no one. While the child over does not need candy, as no one does for that matter, he suffers in no way from plain candy given after a regular meal.

Chocolate candies with nuts are taboo. Small children cannot chew nuts to a paste, and the hard particles may cause choking and perhaps suffocation. Inhalation into the lungs. Candy is such a rich and nourishing food that if it is eaten between meals, it can easily dull one's appetite for the meal to follow. Adults know this from their own experience.

THE ICE CREAM QUESTION

Ice cream is too rich a dessert for the child under two, but it could be no more harmful than the ingredients in it. Milk is the most frequent cause of intestinal infections, and yet we do not deprive the child of milk because of that, but simply assure ourselves of the purity of the milk. The same is true of ice cream. Home-made ice cream is an excellent dessert for the child. Eaten between meals, or as a treat, it has exactly the same disadvantages as candy.

Frozen milk has been known to make children sick. There is no dietetic reason why, but it is wise to thaw the milk out very slowly and stop its use if it has any ill effect upon the baby. Your friend's attitude is fanatical rather than sensible. She is manufacturing problems for herself instead of dissipating them. Your explanation of the motive is right. This is just her way of making herself distinctive as a superior and conscientious mother. You may enjoy reading my leaflet, "Desirable Sweets for the Child." I shall be glad to send you a copy if you will enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request for it.

DOLPHINS HALT
GIRL'S CRAFTDuring Lone Adventurous Trip
Around Europe in Frail Craft

Canadian Press

Stockholm, Sweden, Sept. 14.—"The most terrible night of my life," Miss Aina Cederblom called her nerve-racking adventure amongst a shoal of large dolphins on the Mediterranean during her tour round Europe in a small open boat with a detachable motor.

The twenty-four-year-old girl has already completed the greater part of her ambitious undertaking. Starting from Sweden last year she reached Vienna in May and traveled along the Danube to Constantinople, the sea of Marmara, through the Dardanelles, across the Aegean Sea via Athens and Piræus to Venice, through the canal system of the Po to Genoa and further to Naples, Sicily and Corsica.

From Corsica she started out for Marseilles, a perilous stretch for an open boat owing to the dangerous currents. Forty-eight hours after the start she got into a large shoal of giant dolphins, some of them six feet long. One of these huge fishes smashed her propeller beyond repair. She tried to set sail, but the wind was against her and she threatened to upset the boat. She then took to the oars and rowed for twenty hours until her hands were lacerated and bleeding. Night came on and she tried to sleep but the dolphins kept on buffeting the frail craft and kept up a constant concert of peculiar whistling which made the night still more terrifying. At last, after being tossed about for four days and five nights, she was sighted by an Italian pilot vessel, picked up, given the best of care and put ashore at Nice.

A progressive programme was arranged, consisting of a talent tea to be held at the home of Mrs. Gibson, Hampshire Road, on September 23; a fruit and jam shower for the benefit of the Children's Aid to be held in the church hall on October 3; a rummage sale to be held in the church hall on October 5, and a special talent tea to be held in the church hall on November 19. The guild members will be grateful for the cooperation of friends in making all these functions a success.

A delightful tea was served by Mrs. H. P. E. Luttrell and Miss MacDonald, after which the meeting terminated.

Pioneer Woman Of Winnipeg Dies

Winnipeg, Sept. 14.—Mrs. William Sinclair, pioneer of Manitoba and daughter of "Big" Donald Sinclair, early Hudson's Bay Company trader, died yesterday in St. Andrews, Winnipeg suburb. Mrs. Sinclair used to recall to friends early troubles with Indians and fur traders experienced by her father at his post on the Red River, north of Port Garry. She spent nearly all her life in St. Andrews. Mrs. Sinclair had thirteen children, only one of whom outlived her.

Nurse's Suit On Anniversary Of Aimee's Wedding

Los Angeles, Sept. 14.—The old love affair of David L. Hutton and Myrtle St. Pierre, pretty nurse, bounced back yesterday to blight celebration of the first wedding anniversary of the baritone singer and Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, evangelist.

While the chorister and his wife motored away to spend the day at an unannounced destination, attorneys for the nurse took steps to collect a $5,000 judgment which Miss St. Pierre won recently in a breach of promise suit.

In the event Hutton is without assets, as he has publicly stated, an attempt will be made to investigate the assets of the evangelist, Miss St. Pierre's attorney said.

Women's Guild Of St. Andrew's Busy

The Women's Guild of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held its opening meeting in the lecture room of the church Monday afternoon. Mrs. M. R. Pearce, the president, occupied the chair and opened the meeting with devotional exercises and delivered an inspiring address of welcome to the members. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were submitted and approved. The visiting ladies, Mesdames Boyd, Gibson and Nichol, gave reports of many visits paid and flowers distributed to sick friends. Letters of appreciation were read from friends who had been grateful for gifts of flowers also for letters sent to those who had been sadly bereaved.

A progressive programme was arranged, consisting of a talent tea to be held at the home of Mrs. Gibson, Hampshire Road, on September 23; a fruit and jam shower for the benefit of the Children's Aid to be held in the church hall on October 3; a rummage sale to be held in the church hall on October 5, and a special talent tea to be held in the church hall on November 19. Dad was explaining something to his boy about an errand he was to do. "The house isn't easy to find, Bill. I'll have to tell you where to go. You go down to Wright's Drug Store and then you turn around that corner or Beach Street. You go past the bakery and on down past the garage and past the engine house—let's see—there's about three blocks—and there's a little alley beyond that, just two or three buildings, called Pike's Alley."

"This man I want lives at 107 Pike's Alley. Just tell him Mr. Wilson wants him to come to work at 9 o'clock. And tell him to get hold of Jim Duffie, too, and bring him along. The man's name is Mike Ream—Mike Ream. If he isn't there, tell his wife, I can't phone because he hasn't any. And I'm too tired to budge another step to-day."

"You go down to Wright's store and turn to your left on Beech, go down three blocks and a half or so and turn down to your left on Pike's Alley and—"

"he gave the directions again."

ROUGH ON DAD

"How can you remember?" "Sure! Say, Dad, I was just thinking. Ben isn't going to be home this year. Can I have his old football that's up in the attic?"

"Were you listening to me?" Mr. Wilson asked sternly. "This is important. Or were you thinking of footballs?"

"Oh, I heard you. I'll find it. I'll tell you what his name was. Where did you say he lived?"

It was repeated impatiently. Bill left. An hour later he came back. "Say, Dad, there ain't any Peach Alley. I looked everywhere. There ain't any alley at all. No sir, I just went where you said. I got to the drug store and—no, no, Wright's, that other one—what's his name—Quillen's. Didn't you say 'Quillen's'?"

Mr. Wilson put on his hat and went himself.

Fifteen years later, Bill, heard of a job, a good one. Others had heard of it, too, but Bill had an inside track. Before hiring him, his future employer—hypothetically—took him over the place.

"This is our cooling room. We had the old type coolers taken out and these put in. Wait—I'll show you how easily the temperature is controlled. 'Did you hear the ball score?' asked Bill.

"No, I didn't. Come on and I'll explain the wrapping and shipping. Now his ramp here is an idea of my own. You see—"

"Pardon, Mr. Knox, but is that a Cortex watch you're wearing? It's almost the mate of mine."

After a half dozen breaks, Mr. Knox bade him a polite good-bye, saying he would let him know if he needed him.

He didn't. Someone else who could listen got the job.

To be able to listen is an absolute necessity in business.

Train your boy to do it.

KITCHEN

SWEET PICKLES ADD A TOUCH TO MEAL

One of the easiest ways to furnish up an otherwise ordinary meal is by means of sweet pickles. The simplest meat dish gains zest and no relish tray seems complete without its complement of this piquant accessory.

Nearly all the fruits and many of the vegetables lend themselves to this method of preserving. Carrots and cucumbers are most delectable of the vegetables. Carrots retain their color and are very decorative to serve. They are easier to make than cucumber rings because of their natural firmness of structure. Unless cucumbers are at the right stage of maturity they are apt to become soft and mushy.

Beets, small green tomatoes and ripe small yellow tomatoes can be used to make appetizing and colorful sweet pickles. They are all inviting garnishes for winter salads as well as meat dishes.

Fresh, canned or dried fruits can be used with good results. This makes it possible to make sweet pickles at any time during the year and not only when fresh fruits are available. Melon rinds, both cantaloupe and watermelon, should be added to the list and in a season when fruits and vegetables are generally scarce they should not be overlooked.

Canned pineapple is extraordinarily good when prepared in sweet pickling syrup. Cut in slices and wedges and pour boiling syrup over the fruit for three successive mornings. The fourth morning fruit and syrup are brought to the boiling point and put into sterilized jars and sealed.

Fresh plums, pears, peaches, apples, and the seedless grapes are delicious when put up in a sweet pickling syrup. Any fruit which is pickled without removing the skin or rind should be well pierced over the entire surface.

The time for cooking fruits in the syrup varies. The fruit can be cooked until tender in clear water and simmered in the pickling syrup until tender. Or the whole cooking process can be done in the syrup. The pickled material should be tender and clear but firm and unbroken. Pouring the syrup over the fruit or vegetable for several mornings in succession insures a perfect and unbroken pickle but prolongs the time of preparation.

The same general rule can be used for almost any variety of fruit or vegetable. The spices can be varied but the proportions of sugar and vinegar remain the same. The spices are used whole and tied in a small cheesecloth bag if clear.

TO-MORROW'S MENU

Breakfast: Sliced peaches, ready-to-serve cereal, cream, rice omelet, crisp toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon: Sweet potato and nut puffs, creamed cauliflower, hearts of celery, raisin bread, lemonade.

Dinner: Cream of corn soup, halibut and radish salad, shoe string potatoes, baked cucumbers, peach cottage pudding with foamy sauce, milk, coffee.

For New Season

The new executive of St. John's A.Y.P.A. was installed by Rev. Canon F. A. P. Chadwick at the opening meeting of the 1932-33 season as follows: President, Jack Laver; first vice-president, Kathleen Smith; second vice-president, John Homer; secretary, Lenora Trickett; and treasurer, John Hooper. Canon Chadwick, with a few well-chosen words, presented Miss Clara Jeeves, who for the past three seasons has been president of St. John's, and whose untiring work and patience have contributed much to the success of this branch, with a past-president's badge. S. C. Hawkins, Dominion vice-president, and honorary president of St. John's, also received a past-president's badge. Mr. Hawkins was president of St. John's when A.Y.P.A. was in its infancy, and it is owing to his ability and work that A.Y.P.A. holds such a coveted place in Victoria and throughout Canada as it does to-day.

The recipients replied, thanking their fellow members for the unexpected yet greatly appreciated rewards, and added a hope that they would be able to continue serving in their small way, such a worthy cause.

Miss Betty Martin, Miss Isabelle Dallan and Jack Aylwin, president of the Local Council, were guests of the evening. Mr. Aylwin spoke a few words of praise to St. John's and the new executive, and expressed a desire that they continue the good work. At the brief business session J. Hooper and the president were elected Local Council representatives.

Cameo under the direction of Miss Bonastow and Jack Veale, followed by refreshments wrote "finis" to the first meeting of the new season.

JACK HOLT MAN OF MANY PARTS
BOTH OFF AND ON THE SCREEN

By ROBERT GRANDON

Hollywood.—Down in the Brown Derby yesterday spied Monte Blue and Jack Holt deep in conversation. He-men, both of them, and both started stunting in the films. Monte got his first chance letting Doug (senior) Fairbanks jump on him.

"...and Jack...well, that's another story."

When Jack came to movieland in 1915, he viewed the making of a picture for the first time. Someone had to jump a horse off a thirty-foot cliff. Jack was the someone and then there became a movie actor... but before that... oh, boy! what an experience.

"Laborer... hunter... trapper... miner... surveyor... he tried them all. Then he became a guide in the northwest, for a time, he carried Uncle Sam's mail in Alaska and always munched it through... Tried ranching, went broke, then the movies."

Back of all this, his ancestry. Father a minister... grandfather chief justice of the Supreme Court... Jack studied in Trinity Prep in New York and attended the Virginia Military Institute of glorious memory.

"It put a regiment of kids in the Civil War... With such a background, no wonder whatman."

Jack's married, happily, to a non-professional. There are two kids... Tim, eleven, and Betty, thirteen... He's husky, quiet spoken, a superb horseman and an expert polo player.

Owens a half interest in the C. E. Green cattle ranch in San Joaquin Valley. A twenty-thousand acres and cattle to match.

An adventurer on the screen... and an adventurer off it... there you have Jack Holt... gentleman adventurer.

Are you worried about your child's future? Robert Grandon's Horoscope leaflet may contain some good advice.

Write for it enclosing three cents and a stamped, addressed envelope.

SOCIAL, PERSONAL AND HOME INTERESTS

for LOVE or MONEY

He set down the glass after a pause. "I did not invite you to lunch, however, to discuss Barry. The subject is painful to me. We have an errand later. I have a gift for you. I selected it some time ago. Maybe you heard of it. A huge blue diamond called the Empress of Peru. It's yours. Withington, my jeweler, has it set for you in a necklace. Too large really, but worth a rather varying amount, a king's ransom."

"You've bought 'The Empress' for me?"

"You've heard of it then?" he glanced at her sideways.

"Of course I've heard of it. Who hasn't? It's been in the newspapers. But you've bought it for me!"

They rode in a taxicab to Withington's. At once they were ushered into a private room and Mona, not unaware of displeasure by attention bestowed upon her husband, saw that he was recognized as a man of affairs and importance. She felt that if they had come to buy shirt studs their reception would have been no less gracious.

The busy little manager welcomed them and, smiling, rose without words to swing open a huge safe behind him and bring forth a red velvet box. Two men stood on guard in the doorway. The Empress was not a bauble to be tossed about carelessly.

The little man opened the case and displayed the necklace. Mona, seeing him, wondered idly if anything in this world—save Barry who was denied her—could mean as much to her as this jewel meant to Mr. Withington.

He laid the necklace gently in her hands. It seemed at once marvelous and pathetic. Her husband had given her the largest diamond available. He was dealing in superlatives. Just as a small boy selects the roughest apple for his sweetheart, the most delicate rose for his mother.

"It's beautiful," she agreed, handing the diamond back to the jeweler who was hovering about as a devoted nurse hovers when her charge is for the moment in incapable hands.

He begged to be allowed to fasten the chain about madame's throat. "Beautiful! Charming!" he echoed. "Only madame could wear such a stone!"

It was arranged that the diamond should remain in the safe at Withington's until the opera season when Mona should wear it on her first appearance in the Townsend box.

"Our first engagement of importance, really," her husband said, his eyes traveling along the thronged sidewalk as their cab threaded its way up Fifth Avenue. "I do hope, my dear, that you will enjoy it. Forgive me if you can for anything I may unwittingly have done. Is there anything else, anything at all that you would like to have, my dear?"

Mona's cameo profile was clear cut against the shadows of the cab. "Are you sure you would do anything I asked?" she said softly, without looking at him.

"I would try."

"Maybe I'll ask you later."

"Drive through the park," he ordered as they neared 58th Street. For some moments they drove in silence. Fall was more evident here than in the streets. Children on roller skates, warmly dressed, walked at cross-purposes with their nudes. The trees were beginning to look bare. The shrubbery was bronzed with red berries.

Summer wanderers, summer absentees were returning. The new season had begun.

Vaguely Mona understood something new had come about, too, in relations with this man who was so strangely her husband. She did not know, but she hated him now. Yet through him Barry's life seemed ruined. Her own life was ruined too.

"Ask me now. Tell me what I can do to make you happier!"

Mona aroused herself from the reverie to hear these words. Instantly she made up her mind.

The car shot across the bridal path and she could see a figure on horseback, reminding her somehow of that picture she had imagined of little Barry astride his pony at Twilanda. Even then his uncle's animosity toward Barry had begun.

She laid an impulsive hand on the man's arm. "You can do this, she exclaimed. 'Nothing for me because I have everything. Every luxury and comfort I could wish or even dream of wishing for. For the first time in my life I've been able to do things, give things to others. There was a break in her voice. Her eyes were shining.

"But what are you doing to Barry?" Mona went on. "Everything that can hinder him in his work. Those two boys have made a success of that old worked-out mine. But that success has been Steve's, not Barry's. Everything can be traced to Steve! He found (she was going to say the Empress but checked herself) the larger diamonds they sold to my machinery. Steve controls the men more easily than Barry could. He has had more experience, I suppose, and understands them."

"I've never met Steve," Mr. Townsend commented idly. He sat very still.

"Whatever you look at it this is Steve's enterprise. Barry doesn't count because of you. He came north to get money to finance the new dredging machinery."

"New," remarked Mr. Townsend disinterestedly. "Those mines have been worked for years without machinery. South American mining is shallow. Nothing like the South African mines."

"You light Twilanda with electricity, don't you?" asked Mona hotly. "You don't use candles simply because people die a few hundred years ago. Let Barry have his inheritance or the money you are keeping from him. Oh, I know what you've done is legal enough but legality and right don't necessarily go hand in hand."

They rode for a moment in silence. Mona's breast was heaving. Her face was flushed and her breath came in quick, short gasps. Suddenly she opened her purse and began repairing the damage of the tears that had come into her eyes.

"When a woman gets out a powder puff," observed Mr. Townsend coolly, "I realize she has had her say. So I'll have mine. Please come out of that mine? Don't you suppose I know precisely what you'll do with it the moment you get the chance?"

"What?" asked Mona.

"Sell it. No woman wants to wear that lump of ice. Even though she knows it cost a million. Well, sell it and give the money to Barry if you like. But it will not come from me! You see?"

Mona looked at him in amazement. "Sell it? When?"

The man waved a smoothly gloved hand and laid it over the other which was grasping his walking stick. "Any time. Now—to-day—tomorrow. Or better still, when I am gone."

CHAPTER XXIX

Mona raised startled eyes. "When you are gone?" she repeated.

Her husband surveyed her gently. "My dear, do you believe for an instant that I think I shall live forever?" His tone was light but for all that Mona knew he was aware of that which had been concealed from him so carefully. He knew that he had been given a year to live.

For a moment neither spoke. Then the man said cheerfully, "Since life is so short and time is fleeting there are several things I would like to do. The first is to see you as frequently as possible. I want to take you about, to show you off if you don't mind the phrase—to provide you with gifts. I want to meet your family, too. I'd like to feel that this rather abrupt move of mine has benefited them in some way. Of course," he added hastily, "I know you are doing everything for them you can think of. Perhaps I can think of something more."

"You are so kind," replied Mona uncertainly. "But you haven't promised to do the one thing I want most. Will you arrange things for Barry?"

He glanced sharply toward her. "Change my will, you mean?"

She nodded.

Townsend looked away. "One thing at a time, my dear," he said. It came into the girl's mind that not once had he called her "Mona." "One thing at a time," he repeated. "To-day let's drop in to call on your family."

He moved forward to give the order to the chauffeur but Mona stopped him. "Maybe I'd better telephone first," she said, trying to hide her confusion. "You know it will be a great event for mother."

"Why, of course. We'll telephone first," he spoke to the chauffeur then. "Jackson, will you stop at the next corner?"

Mona was to discover that her husband fitted in with the life of the Moran household beyond her most optimistic expectations. After that first visit when she had hurried into her new silk gown and, with a single sweep, cleared up "that trash of Kitty's" from the dining-room table, when dad had apologized for his lack of a shave and Mona herself had tried not to show her nervousness, the Townsends came often to the Third Avenue flat.

It seemed strange, indeed, to Mona to learn that her husband, with his splendidly erect carriage and distinguished air, was really little younger than her father. The two men it seemed had skated on the same pond long years before.

Kitty admired her brother-in-law and told Isabel Flynn she was almost tempted to call him "John."

That was the name by which Mona addressed her husband in the presence of the family. With a little tact they had succeeded admirably in presenting a picture of completely happy married life. Even ma's sharp eyes failed to detect any variance from the usual picture of domestic harmony.

Ma, in fact, was deeply impressed by Mona's "fine man." She would scurry about, serving the inevitable tea—in this case not at Mona's gentle insistence—with delicate slices of lemon. Once the Townsends stayed to dinner and Mona was pleased and even touched to observe her husband's ease in the stuffy dining-room where the obviously "company dinner" of hot and heavy foods was spread before him.

Then came the "grand day" as Mrs. Moran expressed it when the family piled into the big car and was whisked away to Long Island for a shore dinner because Mr. Moran had in a conversation with his son-in-law, mentioned his fondness for clams in the old days at City Island.

"Sure, and it makes no difference to the man because we aren't swells," ma, struggling with her new hat slightly askew on her graying hair, had told Mrs. Callahan after the return from the revelry. "Everything you could think of, mind you, set before us. A whole bill for the waiter. And such style!"

Christmas brought a bewildering load of gifts to the Moran's from the Townsends.

"You are so good!" Mona murmured as she moved about her sitting-room one snowy mid-December afternoon, tying gifts with gay ribbons and cords and addressing Christmas cards. "Anybody who has money could order gifts for people but you select them! You even sit here helping tie them up and plan to deliver them yourself."

Her voice faltered slightly. Yes, her husband was, as she had told ma long before, a good man. There was only one thing he had failed to do and that was to make up his quarrel with Barry.

"All this is fun," Mr. Townsend replied. "I like it." He was seated by the fire and moved a froth of tissue and scarlet cord from the table as the maid brought in tea. It was cozy sitting there before the firelight with the snow falling outside the window.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Sour Apple

By HOWARD E. GARIS

Baby Bunty, the little orphan rabbit child, hopped home early from school one day. Baby Bunty had been so good in class that the Lady Mouse Teacher in the Hollow Stump School said to her:

"You may go now, Bunty."

"Oh, thank you, so much!" said Bunty. "I'll hop home and may be Uncle Wig will take me adventuring with him."

As it happened, the rabbit gentleman had been late that day in starting to look for an adventure. First he had to put up the clothes line for Nurse Jane. Then he had to go to the store for his wife to get some molasses so she could make a chocolate cake, or something. But after a while he hopped off on his own account just as Bunty came home early from school.

"Oh, Uncle Wig! Please take me with you!" begged Bunty, using all the baby talk she was allowed. If she had had her own way she might have said: "Please take me with you!" But nothing like that happened.

"All right," answered the rabbit gentleman, "hop along, Bunty, and help me look for an adventure."

The two rabbits, one a jolly old gentleman and the other a cute little orphan bunny, hopped along together over the fields and through the woods, up hill and down hill, far, far away.

"You are so good!" Mona murmured as she moved about her sitting-room one snowy mid-December afternoon, tying gifts with gay ribbons and cords and addressing Christmas cards. "Anybody who has money could order gifts for people but you select them! You even sit here helping tie them up and plan to deliver them yourself."

GOVERNMENT COSTS DEBATED
Canadian Chamber of Commerce Hears Suggestion Taxation Should Be Cut

Halifax, Sept. 14.—Delegates of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce at yesterday's session of their annual convention here heard A. O. Dawson, chairman of the executive, express the view the Dominion's present need was a reduction in taxation. Later they joined in discussing facts and figures bearing on the costs of government.

INCREASE SHOWN
W. Sanford Evans of Winnipeg, chairman of the research committee, put before the delegates a number of graphs. One showed that "ordinary" governmental expenditures had increased from $19.08 per capita in 1904 to $36.72 in 1919, and $46.63 in 1921. This included Dominion, provincial and municipal spending.

"The present looseness of thinking in Canada, particularly in provincial and municipal financing, is a serious danger," he said. "Certain expenditures are more or less arbitrarily, or even capriciously called ordinary expenditures, and if revenue can be made to cover these, the merit of a balanced budget is claimed, and then what amounts to a second budget is introduced, with all other expenditures, which are to be met by borrowing."

FOREIGN TRADE
R. E. Thorne, vice-chairman of the foreign trade bureau of the chamber, declared successful salesmanship in the foreign market depended on diplomacy and common sense. "You cannot sit at a desk in Montreal or Toronto and sell your goods successfully in China," he said. "One must visit the overseas markets in order to understand the requirements of those markets."

Nanaimo Board of Trade Told Petty Interference Rife at Border

Special to The Times
Nanaimo, Sept. 14.—"There is too much petty interference at the border by Customs officials," declared Arthur Leighton yesterday evening at a meeting of the Board of Trade, when discussing a resolution, adopted some time ago by the local board, regarding reciprocal arrangements between Canada and the United States to permit tourists to purchase goods worth $100 free of duty. Mr. Leighton stated the matter had been brought up in the United States Senate and if acted upon would prove detrimental to Canada. He pointed out that Canadians now paid duty, while American tourists in Canada were permitted to take back $100 worth of goods duty free. Copies of the resolution will be sent members of Parliament and the Canadian Chambers of Commerce Convention at Halifax.

President Mitchell reported progress on the Departure Bay Road improvements and that parking signs had been erected. He suggested that District Engineer Pethick be thanked for his co-operation.

The Vancouver Board of Trade wrote asking how many copies of the Board Committee's report would be required. George Pearson, M.P.P., said he had not been able to procure a copy from the government.

The board congratulated the Native Sons' Society upon the successful track and field meet held here on Labor Day.

TARIFF CALLED NEW CHALLENGE
Irish Free State Labor Party Makes Statement on British Duties

Canadian Press
Dublin, Sept. 14.—Following a meeting of the Irish Labor Party yesterday evening, a pronouncement was made in which it was declared the action of the United Kingdom government in levying a tax on Irish farm produce was a challenge to the Irish people on a political as well as an economic issue, which again raised the question of "subjugation or independence, equality or subordination."

The declaration urged the Free State government to arrange to supply every family during the winter with sufficient fuel, food and clothing, and advocated the creation of an organization, which, acting on behalf of the government, would undertake the sale of Free State produce for British markets, the state bearing the loss between the guaranteed price and the prices obtained.

Following the failure of the Irish Free State government to pay land annuities involving approximately $15,000,000, the United Kingdom placed a 20 per cent tariff on all live stock and farm produce from the Free State.

TO HOLD BACK SUMS
At a meeting of 400 County Sligo farmers yesterday, a resolution was adopted calling for the withholding by the farmers of land annuities' payments to the Free State Government on December 1. The resolution also requested the Free State government to effect an immediate settlement of the Anglo-Irish dispute over land annuities.

FALL IS BEST TIME TO TRANSPLANT
By W. A. TAYLOR
In early fall and until the first hard frost the enthusiastic gardener finds that next year's garden is competing with this year's. Some perennials and even more varieties of annuals are at their brightest and best in the fall and provide a riot of cheerful color. But regardless of beauty, it is coming time to get started with fall work in the garden in preparation for next year.

It is time to divide and transplant perennial plants, to get biennials and perennials seedlings out of nursery rows and into permanent places in the garden, and the time for fall planting is approaching. It is better to sacrifice part of the fall overhauling to delay the fall overhauling.

Most gardeners find that it pays to give their perennial beds or borders a thorough overhauling every third or fourth year. The general overhauling offer opportunity to improve the garden plan, to correct defects in drainage of the bed, and to spade deeply and thoroughly.

FERTILIZING TIME
This is the time to apply most of the fertilizer that will be required for three or four years, working it deep into the subsoil so that roots of the perennials will run deep in search of plant food and will find the plentiful supply of water retained in the manure with the soil a foot to three feet below the surface.

Los Angeles, Sept. 14.—A $2,000,000 damage action against Samuel Goldwyn Inc., motion picture concern, is being pressed by Ronald C. Colman, film actor, who charges the company with issuing written statements which he construes as reflecting on his character and ability as an actor.

Colman claims the statements pictured him as being "drunk and dispirited." Colman says the film company had been endeavoring to obtain agreements from him to perform acts which he said he was not obligated to perform. He says he believes this prompted the statements on which he has based his suit. Colman claims the statements were false and made with malice.

In his suit, the first papers in which were filed yesterday, Colman sets forth one of the statements as being: "He feels he looks better for pictures when moderately tipsy than when completely fit."

LAWYERS SENT TO DICTIONARY

St. Patrick Appeal Adjourned
For Them to Look Up Meaning of "Conviction"

So that lawyers could look up the meaning of the word "conviction" in the dictionary and see what the word meant, Judge Lampman this morning adjourned until after noon the hearing of the appeal brought by Stuart Henderson as counsel against the judgment of June 17, ordering the confiscation of the salmon seiner St. Patrick of Tacoma for fishing illegally in Canadian waters.

The court room was crowded with seafarers and experts expected to be called upon as witnesses, including Capt. John Sumich of Tacoma, master of the vessel.

Prosecutor H. W. R. Moore objected that Mr. Henderson could not go ahead with any appeal in court as the law covering such seizures states that appeal for the release of the vessel had to be made to the cabinet minister at Ottawa, also that the magistrate's order was not a conviction, and there could only be appeal against a conviction.

When the lawyers got into an argument as to whether or not there had been a conviction when a court finds charges proved and a vessel confiscated as punishment, the judge ordered a halt in the proceedings, suggesting the lawyers go to the library for an hour and a half and dig into the Oxford dictionary.

The case is being resumed this afternoon.

The St. Patrick was seized by the Canadian patrol boat Glenview off Discovery Island on August 30, 1931, but was turned free after a full hearing by Mr. Justice Martin of the Admiralty Court. When the captain delayed in moving the vessel out and started to seek damages for improper seizure, his boat was seized again and brought up in another court, where the magistrate found against it.

When the court reconvened this afternoon, the judge, after hearing further arguments from the lawyers, upheld the contention of Prosecutor Moore and dismissed the appeal.

Under Major Walter Bapty, formation of the first headquarters company of the Second Battalion Canadian Scottish Regiment was commenced at the Armories yesterday evening.

Training of the unit will commence next Tuesday. It includes machine gunners, signallers, stretcher-bearers, the pipe band and drummers.

Competent instructors will be in charge of each section. Capt. D. J. Brown, an ex-Canadian Pipe Band member, who took a staff course at Camberly will assist with the machine gunners, and Capt. George Brown will be in charge of the stretcher-bearers. Capt. Brown saw service in the South African War, and also took part in the Great War. Signallers will be instructed by Lieut. W. Greene, formerly of the Royal Canadian Air Force. Pipe-major Donald Cameron, who saw service overseas, will have charge of the pipe band. Drum-Sergeant M. McKinnon will have charge of the drummers.

When the court reconvened this afternoon, the judge, after hearing further arguments from the lawyers, upheld the contention of Prosecutor Moore and dismissed the appeal.

WAS PIONEER OF CARIBOO

John Blair, Who Died Here Yesterday, First Came to City in 1877

John Blair, a pioneer of Barkerville, passed away in St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday evening, aged seventy-seven years. A native of Westport, Ontario, Mr. Blair came out to Esquimalt in 1877 and went up to Barkerville, in the Cariboo, attracted by the gold mining, and subsequently went to the Klondike, where he spent many years, returning to Victoria twenty-five years ago and residing here ever since, latterly at 8029 Albion Street.

He is survived by three brothers: Robert of Westport, Ontario; William, Eureka, Cal.; and Henry, Vancouver. The funeral will be held on Friday at 2 o'clock, Rev. H. W. B. Stocken officiating. Interment will be in Royal Oak Burial Park.

NEW HOLIDAY DATE MOOTED

Civic Celebration on August 2 Is Current Suggestion

Interest surrounding the suggested change in the date for Victoria's main annual celebration holiday was aroused considerably by action of the City Council Monday night on Alderman H. O. Litchfield's resolution for elimination of the gala features of May 24.

Alderman Litchfield proposes June 23 as the new date for celebration in view of the fact that eventually it would be the birthday of the reigning monarch. The Prince of Wales was born on June 23.

Alderman Litchfield stated his idea in choosing June 23 was due mainly to the popularity of the Prince as the "most-travelled Britisher" and one who always received a warm welcome when visiting any part of the Empire.

At the City Hall today, a suggestion was current that August 2, the date of the city's incorporation, might be chosen as the holiday. The city was incorporated on August 2, 1862, and the proposal was that this could well be chosen as Victoria's own day for celebration.

Boilermaker Dies After Brief Illness

Archibald John Welsh, for some years a boilermaker for the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway, died at St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday, where he had been a patient for a week. He was born in Ireland forty years ago, a son of the late Sergt. and Mrs. P. Welsh, and came to Canada as a boy of fourteen. He is survived by his widow, at the family residence, 627 Hillside Avenue, one brother, Fred, and two sisters, Miss Doris Welsh and Mrs. J. Potts of Victoria, and a brother, Reginald, in Seattle, also three nieces.

Funeral services will be held at St. John's Church on Friday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Rev. Canon P. A. P. Chadwick officiating. Interment will be at Royal Oak Burial Park. The arrangements are in the hands of Hayward's B.C. Funeral Company.

SOLEMN HIGH MASS SUNG FOR PRIEST

A solemn high mass was sung in the presence of a large congregation, including a large delegation of Sisters of St. Ann, at St. Andrew's Cathedral yesterday morning in honor of the late Rev. Joseph Nicolay, who passed away recently in Holland and who was for many years associated with the Catholic community here. Rev. Father Anselm Wood, pastor of Our Lady Queen of Peace Church, was the celebrant, assisted by Rev. J. A. Gaudette, deacon, and Rev. Father J. B. Colloff, sub-deacon.

Among those in the sanctuary during the service were Rt. Rev. Gerald Murray, Bishop of Victoria; Rev. Father Buckley, rector of Our Lady of Lourdes parish, and Rev. Father Sobry, rector of St. Joseph's Hospital. An augmented choir under the direction of Arthur Condon, assisted by F. J. Sehl, sang the mass.

European Manufacturers Are Building Factories in London to Avoid Tariff Levies, Says Major H. Jellicorse

Believes Unemployment Insurance Act Will Be Altered to Cover Agricultural Classes

As a direct result of the imposition of British tariffs, manufacturers of European countries are building factories in Great Britain, thereby adding to the payrolls and helping to relieve unemployment. It was stated today by Major H. Jellicorse of Denworth, Chichester, Sussex, in an interview given at the Empress Hotel.

Major and Mrs. Jellicorse are sailing this evening by the motor liner Aorangi for Australia, where they plan to spend three months with their daughter and son-in-law, the latter being Dr. Phillip Quirk, Bishop of Ballarat.

FACTORY GROWTH

There is a notable growth of factory building on the outskirts of London by French, German, Dutch and other European manufacturers, which is the result of the tariff policy, said Major Jellicorse. When he left England, he added, there were definite signs of industrial improvement and unemployment was less.

The conversion loan, the Major said, had been a great success, about 90 per cent having been converted, although complete figures were not available when he left London. There appeared to be a genuine interest in round. This, he thought, was due in a large measure to the effect of the Ottawa Economic Conference.

The Major believed that high tariff walls will ultimately be brought to a level whereby the nations of the world will be able to trade together without being hampered by excessive commodity taxation.

To INCLUDE AGRICULTURE

The Major expressed the view that the Unemployment Insurance Act would have to be revised to include agricultural laborers, previously excluded from the benefits of the "dole" by their own unions, and possibly gardeners and chauffeurs. "I have no doubt that agricultural laborers will be included in the provisions of the act in a modified form," said the Major. He said there was considerable unemployment among the agricultural workers on the east coast of England. What was known as the "dole," he claimed, was misnamed; it was a form of unemployment insurance contributed to by all the men with jobs.

Seeing Canada for the first time, Major Jellicorse remarked that he was impressed by the large construction projects which have been undertaken in a country of only about 10,000,000 people.

He spoke of the remarkable efficiency of Canada's transportation system. After concluding his visit to Australia, Major and Mrs. Jellicorse will return to England by way of Ceylon and Egypt.

METEORITES DESCRIBED

James Duff Addresses Astronomical Society: Winter Programme to Start

The final meeting of the summer study group of the Victoria branch of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada was held yesterday evening at the home of H. Boyd Brydon, 2900 Oak Bay Avenue, when James Duff of Sydney spoke on "The Phenomenon of Meteorite Showers in the Heavens."

Mr. Duff spoke chiefly on two meteoric groups in the sky, the Perseids and the Leonids. Using pictures and slides to illustrate his talk the speaker pointed out to his audience that special and expensive equipment was not necessary. In fact, he said it is possible to observe meteorites with the naked eye alone and get some very fine observations.

The first meeting of the winter series of the society will be held on Thursday evening, September 22, at the Unity Hall when W. E. Harper of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory staff will speak on the total solar eclipse which he witnessed recently in the east.

BAN ON RIDING BY IDLE LAUDED

McKenzie Praises Bennett Ultimatum Barring Unemployed From Freight Trains

Premier Bennett's announcement at Calgary last week that riding of freight trains by unemployed persons was prohibited was warmly received by persons moving around looking for work. It is to be stopped after September 30, with police forces put into action to remove all such persons from trains. McKenzie was publicly praised in a statement issued at the Parliament Buildings by Hon. W. A. McKenzie, chairman of the B.C. Unemployment committee of the B.C. Colliery.

"Last year, idle men to the equivalent of twelve battalions of infantry at peace strength found their way into the province from other parts of Canada," Mr. McKenzie stated.

"We are absolutely behind Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett in his decision to stop transients and drifters roaming about the country at the expense of the railways and the provinces where they temporarily settle," Mr. McKenzie stated. "The Prime Minister's statement at the Calgary conference was clear and definite, and we are behind him 100 per cent in the necessity for taking steps to stop the transient movement this fall and winter."

Mr. McKenzie added that the hobnobbing of unemployed into Ottawa had been stopped by the police at the time of the Imperial Economic Conference and it showed such a prohibition could be easily carried out again. He declared such riding around was not good for the morals of young persons. "Cities on the prairies are protesting against the Bennett order, which they say will keep idle men congregated in railway centres."

In the wooden business concerns that had allowed their stock to be depleted, were finding difficulty in securing material from mills in eastern Canada, the mills being run to capacity to meet rush orders.

As far as life insurance was concerned, Mr. Carlisle found many free and ready to be invested in solid companies.

Conditions generally throughout the country seemed greatly improved over last year, the net losses in his particular company for the first six months of 1932 being $1,000,000 below those of the corresponding period of 1931.

It occurred at the home of D. McPherson, 1038 McClure Street.

THE SPOKE'S MIRROR

Rush and Jackson Made Good Showing in First Bike Grind.

Fate Unkind to Boston Red Sox and Braves This Season.

Injuries Robbed Latter of Star Players in Mid-season.

Two Clubs Have Experienced Many Lean Years.

VANCOUVER describes who watched the speed demons in that city's six-day bike race all last week are looking to see who will be the victor to go over in a big way. "Play up that boy Rush. Anything you can say about him can't be too favorable," is the remark of one expert.

"This is only his first race and look at that boy go," another says as the young blonde whipped through on the inside past some of the biggest men in the game. "And Jackson has got what it takes in this game, too," he continued. Up to the time he was forced from the race with a broken collar bone the other Victoria Olympic bike rider was one of the most popular with the officials and fans alike.

Two of the finest characters in baseball have suffered this year the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune. The men are Bob Quinn, president of the Boston Red Sox and Judge Emil Fuchs, owner of the Boston Braves.

The early season collapse of the Boston American League entry caused rust to collect on the way Park turnstiles and spilled red ink all over the books. Only lately has the club, now managed by Marty McManus, shown signs of recovery. To tide him over in emergency, Quinn was forced to sell two of his pitchers, MacFadden and Moore, to the New York Yankees for players and cash.

In the same city, the Braves started but as if they meant to clinch the pennant by mid-season, they were led by Eeckins and inspired by the indomitable Rabbit Maranville, the Braves started in the thick of the fight. The club drew good crowds, profiting by the spacial toward the end of the season. Then things began to happen to the Braves. The list of casualties reads like the toll of a train wreck.

Wesley Schumacher, regular outfielder, was injured and had to stay out of the game for two months. The team sorely missed the batting punch and fielding ability of the former Oregon Aggie star.

Two weeks ago Catcher Bill Hargrave suffered a broken ankle and had to stay out of the game for the rest of the season. Bill Urbanak, shortstop, was out for two weeks because of illness and only recently has returned to the team. Art Shires, after a promising start at first base, was badly hurt and lost to the team.

Recently Fritz Klotter, regular third sacker, seriously injured knee and is reported to be out for the balance of the season. Fred Leach has been on the bench most of the season with leg injuries. Thus, six men, important parts in his baseball machine had to be replaced with experimental material at a time when the Braves needed all the strength they could muster to remain in the race with the red-hot Cubs.

It seems unfair of fate to wreak these plagues upon a city so alive with sports interest. Boston is one of the best towns in the United States for all forms of sports.

Yet the Braves have not ended the season out of the second division since 1921, when the club finished fourth, and has not been a pennant winner for eighteen years. That 1924 pennant, by the way, was the only flag Boston ever won in its thirty-two years in the National League.

Leaving out last year, when the Red Sox finished sixth, that team wound up behind the eight-ball six years in a row. In 1924, the team did manage to struggle up to seventh place, yielding the cellar tenancy to the White Sox. In 1922 and 1923, however, the club was up to its old tricks, finishing a hopeless eighth.

The Red Sox, however, has been a great ball team in some other years, winning pennants in 1903, 1904, 1912, 1915, 1916 and 1918. In the years 1912 to 1919, under Jake Stahl, Bill Carrigan, Jack Barry and Ed Barrow, the club was in the first division. After 1918 came the deluge. The club has not been out of the second division since.

Twenty-year-old Intercollegiate Champion Ties Mark of Bobby Jones and D. Clarke Corkran to Capture Honors in National Tournament; Francis Ouimet, Defending Champion, in Grand Rally to Qualify; Ross Somerville, Canada, Gets in With Fine 150; Frank Dolp and Don Moe Both Out

Five Farms Course, Baltimore Country Club, Sept. 14.—In a day of dramatic surprises, punctuated by an unprecedented onrush of the United States' new golfing talent, the highly-prized qualifying medal for the United States amateur championship was captured by a twenty-year-old college star, Johnny Fischer, Fort Thomas, Ky., and the University of Michigan, with a record-equaling tally of 69-72-142 for thirty-six holes.

Brawner Winner In U.S. Golf Play-off

Five Farms Course, Baltimore County, Sept. 14.—The first eighteen-hole round of "match-play" for the United States amateur golf championship to-day, bringing together thirty-two survivors of the qualifying battle, was preceded by a play-off in which John Brawner, Washington, defeated Turaeh—of Elmford, N.Y., for the thirty-second place.

Brawner beat the youth Turaeh on the first hole, by getting a par four. The result of the one-hole play-off while the dew still covered the fairways bracketed Brawner with Ross Somerville, Canadian champion, for the first round, featured by an expected struggle between the champion, Francis Ouimet, and the veteran New York favorite, George Voigt.

TAIYOS WIN FROM EAGLES

Score 5 to 4 Victory in Play-off Game in Twilight Ball League Series

Smash All Eagles Pitchers as They Continue in Race For Title

Cracking out a four-run rally in the fifth inning, Taiyos took a new lease on life in the Twilight Baseball League play-offs for the championship, when they sent the Eagles down to a 5 to 4 defeat at the Royal Athletic Park yesterday evening.

In accomplishing the feat the Nippons smashed the offering of all three Eagles' pitchers until one by one they left the mound.

Joe Emery started for the feathered tribe and lasted until the beginning of the fifth when M. Ishida knocked out a triple with one down. March relieved him, but failed to find the groove. He let Ishida come in from third on a wild throw and walked the third two batters who faced him. Carr was sent in as a last resort.

The Japanese played a far better brand of ball than they did on Sunday and fully merited their win.

The teams will clash again to-morrow evening at 8:30 o'clock. If the Eagles win, the series will be theirs; but if the Nippons come through with another victory, an extra game will be played.

LEONG KIT TO RETURN HERE

Sensational Chinese Grappler Appearing on Tillicum Card Again Saturday

Leong Tin Kit, brilliant Chinese wrestler, who received such a big hand from local fans last Saturday night when he defeated his opponent at the Tillicum gym this week-end for the main event against Bob McGregor, a newcomer to the Pacific Northwest. In the semi-win-up on Saturday's card Jack Gorman, Dallas, Texas, will oppose Bobby Roscoe, Detroit. A local preliminary will complete the card.

In his initial appearance last week Kit showed himself to be a wrestler of the highest calibre in defeating Sharnan. After dropping the first fall to the Salt Lake City boy, Kit put his opponent down and out with a series of flying tackles. Little is known about McGregor except that he figures to give the Chinaman a hard match.

Gorman was the winner of the recent welterweight tournament in Seattle and defeated a number of first-class men to take the honors in the tourney. Roscoe is a real veteran and a wrestler that can hold his own in the best of company. Gorman and Roscoe both have splendid records and should put on a good bout.

A pitcher should always notice where his outfielders are playing before he starts pitching to a batter. If he does not like their position he should motion them to where he does want them to play. He can do this with either hand, signaling for them to either move to the right or left, play deeper or come in closer.

If he should never cross his outfield and pitch just the opposite to where they are playing.

If they have moved around towards the left field foul line, he should keep his fast and curve balls outside the foul line and inside to right towards the right field foul line he pitches just the opposite.

Make the batter hit to the field you wish him to and not to the one he may prefer.

New York Yankees Whip Cleveland to Cinch League Flag

Joe McCarthy's Boys Can Now Sit Back and Figure Out Their Chances of Whipping National League Titleholders in Baseball Classic; Chicago Cubs Split Twin Bill With Giants to Strengthen Lead as Pittsburgh Loses to Boston Braves; Brooklyn Wins Pair From St. Louis

Having salted away the American League pennant, the New York Yankees could sit back to-day and watch the progress of the race in the National and figure out what to buy with their share of the world series receipts.

Joseph McCarthy's young men assured their participation in the October classic with yesterday's 9-to-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians. They can lose all their remaining eleven games if they feel so disposed and still finished a lap ahead of the Philadelphia Athletics.

While there still is some semblance of a fight for the National League diadem, the Yankees secret service can feel pretty safe in centering its activities on the Chicago Cubs. Unless all signs fall the Cubs will be in there battling them when the series opens at the Stadium September 20.

By dividing a double bill with New York Giants yesterday while Pittsburgh was being whitewashed by Ed Brandt of Boston, the Cubs increased their lead to five and a half games, with twelve to play. They need to win only seven to assure themselves a tie with the Pirates and eight to make Chicago's north side supremely happy.

The Athletics sat idle as the Yanks sewed it up. The third-place Washington Senators were taking a 4-to-1 trimming from the lowly Chicago White Sox, Milt Gaston holding them scoreless until the ninth. St. Louis Browns improved the day by whipping Boston's Red Sox, 3 to 4, behind Bump Hadley's five-hit pitching.

The Cubs and Giants had a pair of grand tussles at the Polo Grounds. Chicago taking the first, 3 to 1, behind Charley Root's four-hit pitching, but dropping the nightcap, 3 to 2.

Home runs by Wally Berger and Billy Urbanak featured the Braves' 3-to-0 win over Pittsburgh. Brandt allowed the Pirates only six hits.

Brooklyn Dodgers, still clinging to a mathematical chance at the pennant, downed St. Louis twice, 6 to 5, in eleven innings and 3 to 1. Hollis Thurston outpitched Dizzy Dean in the second.

Chuck Klein hit his thirty-sixth home run, a double, to help the Phillies crush Cincinnati, 7 to 1.

ROYALS HOLD FOURTH BERTH

Defeat Rochester Red Wings to Hold Position in International Baseball

Montreal Royals may not go any higher than fourth place in the International League standing, but they can boast at least that they have earned the decision over Rochester Red Wings, 1931 champions, in their private battle for that position. Twice in the last two weeks they have come up against Rochester when the Red Wings were close behind them, and both times Montreal came out with the decision.

The Royals increased their margin to three games yesterday by winning the last of the fourth-place battles, 6 to 5.

Baltimore Orioles knotted up the second-place struggle closer than ever by turning back the champion Newark Bears, 7 to 3, to divide their series and the Buffalo Bisons' night clash with Toronto was rained out.

Jersey City strengthened its hold on sixth place by turning back its rival, Albany, 6 to 4, in the series final to gain a 3 to 1 decision in games.

Arrangements have been completed to stage the Victoria City Kennel Club's annual outdoor parlor show on Saturday next, in the grounds of Lieut.-Col. H. W. Niven, 604 Head Street, Esquimalt.

The winner of the silver trophy offered by the club for the entry winning the most points over the winter series of parlor shows, not completed last winter, will be decided at this event. Points won at this event will count for the trophy.

The usual valuable prizes will be awarded for the best junior puppy, six months and under twelve months of age. In all breeds, classes will be provided for junior and senior puppies and girls under fourteen years of age will again be put on. No entry fee will be charged. Winners of the class at previous shows may not compete.

The secretary is now in communication with three specialty judges for the event.

Whip Cleveland to Cinch League Flag

Joe McCarthy's Boys Can Now Sit Back and Figure Out Their Chances of Whipping National League Titleholders in Baseball Classic; Chicago Cubs Split Twin Bill With Giants to Strengthen Lead as Pittsburgh Loses to Boston Braves; Brooklyn Wins Pair From St. Louis

Having salted away the American League pennant, the New York Yankees could sit back to-day and watch the progress of the race in the National and figure out what to buy with their share of the world series receipts.

Joseph McCarthy's young men assured their participation in the October classic with yesterday's 9-to-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians. They can lose all their remaining eleven games if they feel so disposed and still finished a lap ahead of the Philadelphia Athletics.

While there still is some semblance of a fight for the National League diadem, the Yankees secret service can feel pretty safe in centering its activities on the Chicago Cubs. Unless all signs fall the Cubs will be in there battling them when the series opens at the Stadium September 20.

By dividing a double bill with New York Giants yesterday while Pittsburgh was being whitewashed by Ed Brandt of Boston, the Cubs increased their lead to five and a half games, with twelve to play. They need to win only seven to assure themselves a tie with the Pirates and eight to make Chicago's north side supremely happy.

The Athletics sat idle as the Yanks sewed it up. The third-place Washington Senators were taking a 4-to-1 trimming from the lowly Chicago White Sox, Milt Gaston holding them scoreless until the ninth. St. Louis Browns improved the day by whipping Boston's Red Sox, 3 to 4, behind Bump Hadley's five-hit pitching.

The Cubs and Giants had a pair of grand tussles at the Polo Grounds. Chicago taking the first, 3 to 1, behind Charley Root's four-hit pitching, but dropping the nightcap, 3 to 2.

Home runs by Wally Berger and Billy Urbanak featured the Braves' 3-to-0 win over Pittsburgh. Brandt allowed the Pirates only six hits.

Brooklyn Dodgers, still clinging to a mathematical chance at the pennant, downed St. Louis twice, 6 to 5, in eleven innings and 3 to 1. Hollis Thurston outpitched Dizzy Dean in the second.

Chuck Klein hit his thirty-sixth home run, a double, to help the Phillies crush Cincinnati, 7 to 1.

ROYALS HOLD FOURTH BERTH

Defeat Rochester Red Wings to Hold Position in International Baseball

Montreal Royals may not go any higher than fourth place in the International League standing, but they can boast at least that they have earned the decision over Rochester Red Wings, 1931 champions, in their private battle for that position. Twice in the last two weeks they have come up against Rochester when the Red Wings were close behind them, and both times Montreal came out with the decision.

The Royals increased their margin to three games yesterday by winning the last of the fourth-place battles, 6 to 5.

Baltimore Orioles knotted up the second-place struggle closer than ever by turning back the champion Newark Bears, 7 to 3, to divide their series and the Buffalo Bisons' night clash with Toronto was rained out.

Jersey City strengthened its hold on sixth place by turning back its rival, Albany, 6 to 4, in the series final to gain a 3 to 1 decision in games.

CRICKET MEETING

A special general meeting of the Victoria Cricket Club will be held to-night at 8 o'clock at 608 View Street. Members of the club are asked to attend, as matters of importance will be discussed.

PRAIRIE ICE STAR PASSES

Percy Moore Dies at Prince Albert Flour Mill Under Strange Circumstances

Regina, Sept. 14.—Six former teammates carried the body of Percy Moore, one of the smartest hockey players Saskatchewan has produced in years, to the grave today, while an element of mystery still hung about his death at Prince Albert Monday.

Moore's body was recovered from underneath a pile of bran in a bin at the flour mill where he was employed in the northern city. A coroner's jury said death was due to suffocation and took note of evidence indicating he was in a "more or less despondent mood."

Officials of the mill at the inquest doubted his death was accidental as he said it was difficult for a man to get into the bin and the weight of the bran coming down the chute ought not to have been sufficient to overpower a man of normal strength.

Other evidence indicated Moore frequently brooded over the death of a girl in an automobile accident for which he had served a term in prison. In 1931 Moore was a member of the Regina Pats junior hockey team, taking over the right wing position held by his brother, Ken, the previous year. Last year he played for Regina Vics. At this time he was making inquiries about Moore during the last summer.

COAST HOCKEY LOOP POSSIBLE

Proposed Circuit Would Have Teams in Vancouver, Portland, Seattle and Tacoma

Vancouver, Sept. 14.—While no announcement is expected for at least a week, it was learned on good authority here yesterday that Pacific Coast hockey moguls are seriously considering reviving professional ice hockey, on the Coast this season.

Vancouver, Seattle and Portland, members of the defunct Pacific Coast Hockey League, are mentioned as cities in which teams would be placed if the ice game came back. There is also the possibility that Tacoma would be admitted, provided playing facilities there were satisfactory.

It is presumed the executive personnel of the proposed league would consist of hockey leaders who were active in the organization which disbanded at the end of the 1930-31 season. Frank Patrick was president of the former Coast organization, while Guy Patrick was manager of the Vancouver club.

Professional hockey operated for years as a major circuit on the Coast, but with the growth of the National league in the east the Coast clubs found themselves unable to compete with the high salary offers of the

Will Meet Lenhart In Ten-round Fight

Leo Lomski, well-known heavyweight from Aberdeen, who will meet Denny Lenhart, Portland slugger, in the ten-round main event of to-morrow evening's wrestling card at the Pacific Stadium's arena, Yates Street. Lomski will arrive in the city late this evening and it is possible he will work out at the arena. A large crowd was on hand at the arena yesterday evening to watch Lenhart go through his paces. The Portland boy is a boring in type of scrapper with a lovely right hook and a neat defence. He weaves much along the same type as the great Dempsey and is always coming in. Yesterday evening he worked out with Albie Davies and Charlie Storck and the latter went down when caught with a right hook to the solar plexus. Lenhart will be remembered as the boy who fought Dempsey five times in the Pacific Northwest and he was the only heavyweight the former champion was unable to put away. In 1928 Lenhart captured the all-navy light heavyweight championship of the U.S. In their last meeting in Portland Lomski took a close decision over Lenhart after thrilling battle. Last year in Vancouver Lenhart dropped a close decision to Charlie Belanger, Canadian light heavyweight champion. The Portlander will enter the ring to-morrow evening at 180 pounds. Promoter A. E. Chilton announced to-day that he had signed Earl Beebe, Yakima, for the eight-round special event against Pat O'Hannigan, Los Angeles. Billy Davies will referee all the bouts with the exception of the semi-windup which will be handled by Frank Robin, manager of Lenhart. To-night at 8 o'clock Lenhart and several of the other boys on the card will work out at the arena. No charge will be made to watch the boys in action. The two judges for the bouts will be Harry Stanley and Louis Cajman. Tickets for the bouts are on sale at the Gray Line office, Yates Street, and fans are asked to reserve their seats early as the advance sale has been heavy.

Maximum "gate" of $234,000 under the scale of prices prevailing for the series. A sell-out would break the single-game record for attendance, set at $3,000 by the Yankees in 1926, and for receipts, set at $224,130, set at the same park in 1928.

With the addition of 9,000 bleacher seats to be erected for the series, Wrigley Field, home of the Cubs, will seat 51,900 and produce a maximum "gate" of slightly more than $200,000. Thus if the series should go to the full limit of seven games, there would be the possibility of an aggregate attendance of more than 485,000, and total receipts of more than $1,500,000. Both these figures would eclipse records.

The weekly wrestling class at the Pacific Stadium will be held Friday instead of yesterday evening on account of the boxing.

Flight Over Rail Into Seats Fails To Hurt Big Peden

Victoria's Famous Six-day Bicycle Rider Crashes With Low Rush, His Riding Partner, at Vancouver Track, But Escapes Serious Injury; Peden Beaten by Al Crossley, England, in Special Sprint Series for $500 Wager; Horder and Parrott Win Fifty-mile Event

Vancouver, Sept. 14.—William "Torchy" Peden, Victoria's world-famous six-day bicycle rider, narrowly escaped serious injury in a special fifty-mile race event here yesterday evening featuring the riders who took part in the international six-day race last week.

Peden was hanging on the rim of the saucer to take up the race from his partner, Low Rush, following a furious sprint which the latter had won from Al Crossley. Just as Rush drew abreast with Peden the red-thatched rider shoved off and the two collided. Peden was thrown head first over the top rail and into a row of vacant box seats, landing heavily on his head and shoulders. He was assisted to the dressing-room for medical attention, but appeared at the track again shortly after. He was unable, however, to continue in the race. Rush was shaken up but otherwise appeared none the worse for his tangle and continued to ride.

HORDER-PARROTT WIN

Horace Horder, Australia, and "Polly" Parrott, Victoria, were leading the field at the time of the spill and eventually won the race. The Canadian-Australian pair took command of the race at the halfway mark and were never headed. They covered fifty-two miles and three laps during the two hours.

In second place came Al Crossley and Laurent Gaudin, one lap behind with seventy-eight points. Freddie Zach and Frank Bartell were third, tied with Crossley and Gaudin in distance covered but with only thirty-nine points. Savere Vanlambrouck and Frank Elliott brought up the rear, three laps behind the leaders. The other teams were forced out through injuries.

CROSSLEY BEATS PEDEN

Flashing around the track at dazzling speed Crossley won two one-mile sprints to win a special match race with Peden and win a $500 wager.

The race, outcome of rivalry which developed between the two during the international six-day bicycle race which concluded here Saturday, was one of a series of exhibition matches between riders who participated in the event last week.

Peden, whose endurance has put him at the head of the six-day bike races, put up a game fight but was no match for the lighter Crossley at the short distance.

Jim Davies won the special five-man event over the mile route winning two laps and placing third in the other. Parrott was in third position with one win and two thirds.

Savere Vanlambrouck, Belgium, who teamed up with Frank Elliott, North Vancouver, to win last week's race, out-speeded Regie Fielding, Toronto, to take two straight heats in another mile match.

BATTLE BATTALINO

Montreal, Sept. 14.—Frankie Fleming, promoter of the direct action boxing show scheduled to be held here on September 20, announced yesterday he had signed Billy Townsend, Vancouver, to meet Battling Battalino, Providence, R.I., and Louis "Kid" Kaplan, New York, to stack up against Frankie Petrolle, Fargo, N.D. Both bouts will be over the ten-round route.

Toronto, Sept. 14.—Smallest entry list in many years, only forty-four players have been included in the pairings for the Canadian women's open golf championship, starting at Montreal, September 19. Post entries will be accepted, however, and many additions to the original list are expected.

The title hunt will get under way at the Kanawaki course Monday next with an eighteen-hole qualifying round, the top thirty-two entering match play Tuesday. The final will be played Saturday.

Headed by Maureen O'Connell, defending champion, six United States players will compete.

Margery Kirkham, Forest Hills, Montreal, runner-up last year, heads Canadian entrants.

Mother-Love Run Riot Causes Sons and Daughters to Become Misanthropes—Dissatisfied Wives Have Open Door at Mother's—And Such Quitters Get Their Bad Start in Childhood

THE OTHER-DAY the newspapers published the story of a woman who marched her son, a deserter from the army, to the nearest police station and turned him over to the authorities with the remark that no boy of hers was going to be a quitter.

Glory be that there are still mothers like that who have the grit to hold their children to their duty instead of furnishing an alibi for them when they turn yellow. If there were more such mothers, society would not be encumbered with so many delinquents and failures and divorcees.

We glorify mother love and tenderness, but in reality they are often curses rather than blessings and first aid to all the powers of evil. For they breed weaklings who have their courage sapped, their morale broken down, their backbones turned into mush and who lack the grit to do any hard thing or to resist any temptation.

Of course, every child craves sympathy, but to bring one up on pity is just as degrading and demoralizing as it would be to bring it up on dope. Of course, when little Johnny bumps his nose he wants to weep on mother's breast and have her "poor darling," him and say: "Did the nasty old floor hurt my precious lamb?" and the more mother coddles him and the sorrier she is for him, the longer and louder he howls.

But between the mother who runs to pick up her children every time they stumble, and who sheds tears over their every pin prick, and the mother who lets her children pick themselves up when they fall, and who says to them: "Of course it hurts, but you don't cry over a little thing like that," is the difference in the development of the child that turns one into a brave man and the other into a coward; that makes one man fight through to victory and the other run up the white flag and quit before he has struck half-a-dozen licks; that makes one man a success and the other man a failure.

I have seen so many mothers wreck their children's lives with their sympathy. I have seen so many mothers simply melt down the last ounce of resistance in their children with their tears. They wept over poor Johnny because he had to go to work instead of going to college, and because he couldn't have an eight-cylinder car such as rich boys have until they turned Johnny into a surly grouch who felt that life had handed him a rotten deal, and that there was no use in his trying to be anything. They wept over Tommy because he had to get up and go to work at 7 o'clock, and because he had to do unconsoling tasks until Tommy decided he was being worked to death and threw up his job.

They wept over poor Mamie and Sadie because they had to earn their own livings and couldn't dress like millionairesses and spend their time playing golf and going to afternoon parties, until they made Mamie and Sadie dissatisfied and discontented and filled them with envy and bitterness.

And mother felt so self-righteous and that if she couldn't give her children anything else she could give them sympathy, but that was just exactly the worst thing in the world to give them. What they needed wasn't pity. It was a brace, somebody to hold them to their duty with an iron hand, somebody to breathe hope and courage in them and to make them feel that what they were doing was worth while and that there was thrill in it.

What poor boys need is not for mother to pity them, but for her to keep ever before their eyes that in this land of opportunity there is no position so high they cannot achieve it, no luxury so great they cannot win it for themselves if they want it badly enough. They need their mother to continually remind them that poverty is not a handicap to a boy. It is a spur in his side. Nine-tenths of the men who are doing the big things in the world know poverty and hardship as boys.

And the girls don't need mother's sympathy. They need her to tell them how lucky they are to be able to earn their own bread and butter and trifles at congenial occupations instead of being helpless dependents, as their fore-mothers were if they came of poor families. And they need to be told that the lot of the business girl is so much more interesting than that of the society girl that many rich girls are forsaking the drawing room for the counter or the business office, and that more stenographers make good marriages than millionairesses.

It is mother's sympathy that is responsible for the loafers. For it is because Johnny knows that he is always sure of three square meals a day and a place to sleep that makes him throw up his job when the novelty wears off and it begins to look like steady work. If he knew that instead of plying him because his work was unconsoling, mother would shut the door in the face of a slacker, and that if he didn't work neither would he eat, he would stick to his desk or his shovel. It is observable that orphans are not so temperamental as mother's fair-haired boys.

And it is mother who is responsible for innumerable divorce cases. E. Mable knows she can always go back to mother if she loses her taste for J. and that mother will always blame him, no matter what she has done. Many a broken home would be saved if young wives knew that instead of welcoming them back with open arms mother would say: "Of course, marriage isn't all it cracked up to be. Of course, your husband has plenty of faults, but can't be a coward and a quitter. Go back and make the best of your bargain. I did. So does every worthwhile woman."

Mother's sympathy is a beautiful and wonderful thing, but it can also be the most deadly thing on earth. DOROTHY DIX.

Ways of Olden Egypt

Nowadays we sometimes have "tattooed" arms, but it is seldom that a woman has the appearance of her skin manner.

Water Was Carried in a Jar Piled on the Head.

III—CUSTOMS OF OLDEN EGYPT. In ancient Egypt, for reasons best known to themselves, many women caused themselves to be tattooed. The marks were made on forehead or chin, and could not be washed away. Women of olden Egypt also gave away redness to their lips by using ovals. Around their eyes they sometimes formed black lines with charcoal. Some Egyptian women had the hair shaved from their heads, and wore wigs; but others kept their own hair, and dyes were used on women's hair, and we have reason to believe that at times their hair was dyed blue! Daughters of the wealthy spent much vanity; but daughters and ordinary folk had to spend hours in the struggle for a daybreak, an Egyptian housewife prepared breakfast for the whole household, and then she cooked the food. It is believed the bread was thick and hard, and a sour taste. Water needed for the house was obtained from a river, canal or pool, and was carried in a jar piled on the head. Besides her cooking, the housewife spun thread and wove it into cloth. Sometimes she wove more cloth than was needed by her family, and then she could take cloth to market to exchange for other things.

Despite her rather hard life, the Egyptian woman seems to have been looked upon as the head of the household. The poor hut in which the family lived, and the small plot of ground around it, usually belonged to her. An Egyptian child would tell his name by saying he was the son of a mother of such-and-such a name, and would not mention his father.

In Syria, during this ancient period, were women who covered their faces with veils; but Egyptian women did not do so. (For "History" section of your scrapbook). To-morrow—Hunting in Ancient Egypt.
